Hoover Announces Plan to Stimulate Employment

THREE FOLD EFFORT TO AID CITIZENS IN HONEST DIFFICULTY

COMMITTEE OF FIVE CABINET MEMBERS NAMED TO CO-ORDINATE PROGRAM

TO ASK CO-OPERATION OF GOVERNORS AND EMPLOY AGENCIES IN COUNTRY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Oct. 18.—President Hoover, declaring that "as a nation we must prevent hunger and cold to those of our people who are in honest difficulties," has announced a federal program for stimulation of employment during the winter months.

The plan provides for continuation of organizations already set up but broadens their scope and arranges closer co-operation of states and cities with the central government.

A three-fold effort was outlined by Mr. Hoover:

1. Co-operation with governors and employment organizations of states and local communities.
2. Development of employment methods with national industries.
3. Direct federal employment in public works.

A committee of five cabinet members was named to co-ordinate the program and confer with Eugene Meyer, federal reserve board chairman. The secretaries are Hyde, agriculture; Mellon, treasury; Davis, labor; Lamont, commerce; and Wilbur, interior.

Washington, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Secretary of Labor Davis today ordered immigration authorities to admit no more Canadian woodsmen for work in the United States under waiver of the contract labor law unless employers present proof that American woodsmen cannot be obtained.

This action is in line with the administration's recently announced policy of restricting immigration to aid unemployment.

New York, Oct. 18.—New York City has set aside an extra million dollars in its 1931 budget for relief of unemployment.

The addition was made by the board of estimates to the temporary budget, totalling more than $621,000,000, which must be adopted formally by Oct. 31. The money will be appropriated and allotted by the board itself as circumstances require.

The board's action followed an announcement by a committee of prominent business men that $150,000 would be raised weekly in the city to give jobs to 10,000 men in an effort to relieve the situation.

BRITON'S FLIGHT TO AUSTRALIA ENDS SHORT OF HIS GOAL

HILL CRASHES ON ISLAND OF TIMOR, UNINJURED; PLANE DAMAGED

SUCCESS IN SIGHT FOR KINGSMITH; LANDS AT PORT DARWIN

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Flight Lieutenant C. W. Hill, who is attempting to break Bert Hinkler's England-to-Australia flight record of 15 days, 12 hours, crashed on the island of Timor, Dutch East Indies, according to word received here tonight.

The flier was uninjured, but his plane was damaged.

Hill was flying from Sourabaya, on the island of Java, to Port Darwin, Australia, and expected to break Bert Hinkler's record by several days.

No details of the cause of the crash were received here.

Meanwhile, it was reported that Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, who left Croydon several days after Hill's departure, was reported approaching Port Darwin, the first stopping point in Australia. Kingsford-Smith left Sourabaya in his light airplane, Southern Cross, Jr., nearly five hours after Hill departed.

Hill left Croydon Oct. 3 and had he safely concluded his flight at Port Darwin it is estimated he would have broken Bert Hinkler's record by approximately one day.

Kingsford-Smith, whose record of aviation achievements, includes flights from San Francisco to Melbourne, Australia to England and Ireland to Newfoundland, left Croydon Oct. 7, on his present venture.

Port Darwin, Australia, Oct. 18.—Captain F. R. Matthews, British flier who left London September 16, landed here at 4:20 P. M. today.

DRAINAGE LAWS ARE DAMNABLE OUTRAGE, CHASE DECLARES

Madison, Minn., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Asserting that the drainage laws that now exist seek to promote the welfare of contractors rather than the state, Ray P. Chase spoke here today on remedial legislation he proposes to introduce.

Declaring that the present laws are a "damnable outrage never before equalled in the history of the present generation," Chase said these laws did not result in the production of new farm lands but merely in the enrichment of private contractors.

The necessity of drainage should govern the progress of drainage projects, Chase said.

Charging that this situation would continue under his opponent who knows nothing of such conditions and could not remedy them, Chase outlined plans for legislation to curb these evils.

The Chase cavalcade was two hours late all day yesterday bucking high winds and snow flurries. More than 12 cities and towns in Lincoln, Lyons and Pipestone counties were visited by Chase in the last two days.

STORM GENERAL IN NORTH; SNOWDRIFTS IN CANADA 15 FEET

EVER SUNNY SOUTHLAND FEELS GRIP OF PREMATURE WINTER; DEATH TOLL, SIX

MILK FAMINE ADDS TO STORM WORRIES OF RESIDENTS OF SASKATCHEWAN

Chicago, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—An autumnal storm that swept over Canada with mid-winter intensity, killing at least six persons and bringing traffic to a standstill in many sections, spread today over almost the entire northern half of the United States and extended its chilling grip even into the usually sunny southland.

Centering its fury in the Biggar and Perdue districts of Saskatchewan, where in some places it heaped snowdrifts 15 feet high, the storm was said to be the worst for the season within the memory of oldest residents of central Canada.

In the north central United States temperatures were not as low as have been recorded in some years and the snowfall was not the earliest on record, but mid-October storms of such intensity have been rare and the suffering was great.

In Chicago, the death of Thomas Hartford, a teamster, who was found dead in a barn, was attributed partly to the cold.

Near Regina, Canada, five men froze to death when their automobile was stranded all of Thursday night in a snowdrift. Two other men with them suffered severely. In Regina, Dora Goranko, 11, wandered away from home and was lost in the blizzard for 24 hours, but was found, uninjured. Mrs. W. L. Miles, 70, became injured. Mrs. Bay, but also escaped serious injury, although she wandered about through the snow-piled streets for many hours.

At Saskatchewan a milk famine was threatened because it was impossible to make deliveries. The city's clearing apparatus, usually sufficient at all seasons of the year, was inadequate and traffic of all kinds was almost at a standstill.

Snow flurries were general throughout Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and other north central states.

At Holland, Mich., the first snow of the year fell. Coast guardsmen there reported heavy seas on Lake Michigan, but did not believe any ships were in danger.

At Beaver Dam, Wis., 2,000 football fans attending a night game between the State University "B" team and Ripon College experienced the kind of weather the government meteorologists predicted thousands of others would experience today at the various games in the central states. Snow fell throughout the contest and a chilling wind swept across the field, sending the temperature below freezing.

The mercury hovered around freezing in the Chicago territory, but winds made it seem colder. At Eau Claire, Wis., it was reported the temperature dropped to 7 above zero and temperatures of nearly zero were reported in several Rocky Mountain sections, where the storm struck a day earlier than it did here.

Ace Investigator to Trail Published Attacks on Farm Board to Source to Quell Propoganda

WILL SHARE WITH SHORT TRADING IN DEBATE THIS WINTER

McKELVIE WANTS TO KNOW WHO IS FINANCING THE DRIVE AGAINST BOARD

By LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Oct. 18.—A farm board complaint resulting in a federal trade commission inquiry appeared today to have opened another avenue for congressional investigation of the nation's grain trade.

Samuel R. McKelvie of the board has enlisted the commission in a fight against alleged propaganda of the "organized grain trade," which he says has been directed against the board. There is every likelihood that the action will echo in congressional debate this winter, along with the problem of Soviet short trading raised by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

The commission has assigned its ace investigator, Herbert L. Anderson, to the job of trailing published attacks on the farm board to their source. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska and one of the men responsible for President Hoover's pre-election pledge of a special farm relief session, wants to know who is financing the drive against the board.

Grain trade dissatisfaction with the farm board is an old story. Julius Barnes, personal associate of Mr. Hoover, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce and himself a big grain operator, criticized Chairman Legge, McKelvie and their colleagues several months ago. Grain men challenged the board's sponsorship of co-operative marketing organizations which have sliced deeply into the business ordinarily enjoyed by the commission men. There was a sharp give-and-take between Legge and Barnes over a period of weeks.

McKelvie said a paper in his state were publishing full advertisements attacking the board and that these were being circulated through the mails without identification of the senders. At the postoffice department it was said no complaint had been received through regular channels from the farm board.

The federal trade commission's interest would be concerned with the financing of the advertising and whether the public would be able to judge who sponsored it. The postoffice interest would be restricted to any failure to identify advertising as such.

Rebels Begin General Offensive in Brazil
Porto Alegre, Brazil, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Revolutionary headquarters announced today that the rebels are beginning a general offensive along the Sao Paulo front. Federal forces garrisoned at Itu were reported to have joined the revolution.

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Explosion of an oil stove in a restaurant today started a fire which damaged or destroyed several store buildings, injured two firemen, caused damage of $500,000, and for a time threatened to spread throughout the business district. The blaze was stopped when it reached a fireproof bank building.

Cannons Boom First Notes in Premiere of Symphony Concerts

Minneapolis, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Roaring cannons sounded the first notes last night of the world premiere of the Minneapolis Symphony concert series at the University of Minnesota.

After a mishap two years ago and considerable "artistic" opposition, the first concert series ever to be held at a university by a world famous symphony began with fire from a 75 millimeter anti-aircraft gun and a fanfare of trumpeters from Fort Snelling army post.

Two years ago a single concert by the symphony was to have had its gunfire inaugural but the wire which was to have given the artillerymen a signal failed to function. This year such a possibility was prevented by moving the gun to the roof of Northrop auditorium where the concert was held.

Opposition to the gunfire entry of the "world premiere" claimed such tactics were undignified and even "outside the realm of art."

3 STUDENTS MEET DEATH IN CRASH

ROADSTER COLLIDES WITH MOVING VAN TOURING CAR; 3 VEHICLES FILE UP

Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Three university students were killed today in an automobile accident while on their way to the Navy-Duke football game in Annapolis, Md.

The dead were Fred Ingram, High Point, N. C., a student at North Carolina State, Raleigh; James Johnson, Trenton, N. J., and Henry Chapman, Hagerstown, Md. Johnson and Chapman were students at Duke university. A Miller, Baltimore, and James Jarrett, Thomasville, both Duke students, were injured and are in a critical condition at Fredericksburg hospital.

The roadster in which the five students were traveling collided with a moving van near Thornsburg, 14 miles south of here. When the light roadster resisted what he believed was towing another car, all three vehicles left the road and piled up in a shallow gully flanking the highway.

Charles Murray, Richmond, driver of the van, and Chandler McComb, also of Richmond, driver of the third car, are being held pending an inquest today. Murray suffered a dislocated knee.

Hospital Nursing Diamond Gets Bombing Threat

New York, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Jack "Legs" Diamond, wounded gang leader, will be moved under heavy guard from Polyclinic hospital to the Metropolitan hospital on Welfare Island, it was reported today.

Decision to transfer Diamond, who has been in Polyclinic since he was shot and beaten last Sunday, came after hospital authorities received an anonymous warning that the hospital would be bombed.

A guard of 20 automobiles with policemen will escort the private coach to Welfare Island.

KIDNAPERS FOILED, RIDDLE GAMBLER, WIFE WITH BULLETS

GAMBLING PROPRIETOR OPENS FIRE ON ASSAILANTS NEAR SHERIFF'S HOME

RETURN FIRE KILLS WIFE; GANGSTER HIT, ESCAPES BEFORE SHERIFF COMES

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Clyde Garrison, wealthy gambling house owner, was wounded, and his wife, Cora, 37, was killed instantly by machine gun bullets when Garrison last night resisted what he believed was an attempt by gangsters to kidnap him for ransom.

His right leg shattered by four sub machine gun bullets, Garrison declared today from a hospital cot that he felt certain the men who killed his wife were gangsters from Chicago or St. Louis and that he was positive he wounded one of them.

Police also expressed belief in the kidnapping theory and cited as proof the recent kidnappings of other wealthy Peoria bachelors, one of whom was held prisoner in the vicinity of Chicago for five days before he was released.

The officers declared they knew the names of Garrison's assailants and that arrests were expected.

Mrs. Garrison met her husband near his downtown gambling resort, The Windsor, late yesterday. They rode home together and into the garage at the rear of the house.

From an automobile parked a short distance away and directly in front of the home of Sheriff Grant Minor, a man called to them.

"Come here, Clyde, I want to see you," Ignoring the call, Garrison and his wife started walking rapidly toward their house. Two men stepped from behind some bushes. One carried a sub machine gun. They called upon the couple to halt.

Garrison drew a revolver, opened fire, and emptied the gun before he was mowed down by the return fire from the machine gunner. Mrs. Garrison was shot in the ear and once in the hip. Garrison said one of the gangster's fell, but that he was able to get up and, aided by his companion, ran to their automobile, speeding away before Sheriff Minor could get out of his house.

Cops Play Samaritans to Boys Starting Car, Revealed as Stolen

Chicago, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Police-men James Crowley and Timothy Dunn, who boast that they are good officers because they help people in distress, saw eight negro boys trying to start a stalled automobile.

The officers took off their coats, rolled up their sleeves and went to work. They pushed and they pulled and they cranked for two hours and then they said unkind things about it, but the car wouldn't start.

As they started on the third hour, their sergeant, Martin Keenan, drove by in a squad car. Noticing the perspiring and almost expiring condition of his two officers, he stopped, but not to help.

"Where'd you get this car?" he demanded sharply of one of the negro boys.

"Stole it," was the answer, and an investigation proved he was right.

UNTIMELY GAS LEAK BLAMED IN WRECK OF 11-STORY BUILDING

DETECTIVES DISCREDIT THEORY THAT BLAST CAUSED BY COMMUNISTS

ONLY TWO OF 50 INJURED IN $1,500,000 EXPLOSION ARE IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Los Angeles, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The terrific explosion that wrecked the 11-story Garment Capital building and shook the Los Angeles wholesale district remained unexplained today but authorities were inclined to believe it was accidental.

Although continuing to investigate theories that the $1,500,000 blast was the result of sabotage, police detectives said that most of the evidence indicated it was caused by an untimely gas leak which filled the building with fumes and needed only a spark to touch it off. A search for possible suspects was maintained.

Only two of the 50 persons injured by the force of the explosion were in serious condition. They were Herman Schulman, proprietor of the fifth floor establishment in which the explosion originated, and Irving Chavin, who was with Schulman.

A man who said he was J. P. Sexton, a chemist, telephoned the sheriff's office and claimed to have overheard several men planning to bomb the Garment Capital building. He said one was a communist. Sexton hung up when officers attempted to trace the call, saying he did not want to be "framed" but promised to be at a Vermont street address today.

Many theories as to cause of the explosion were offered. It was believed that Schulman started it accidentally when he opened the suite of the Beverly Hills Frock, Inc., and pulled a switch to turn off the burglar alarm. Sparks which flew from the switch were believed to have ignited gas in the room, but the presence of the gas itself was a mystery.

Some of the theories advanced were that a petcock had been left open after a meter was removed and that gas filled the room after most of the windows in the Beverly Hills shop were closed for fumigation the night before the blast.

That trinitrotoluol was present in the room. This was a police chemist theory.

That a length of pipe had been removed from a gas line in the room. That a "heavier-than-air" gas had been injected into the building and that the burglar alarm switch was tampered with so that it would spark and ignite the gas. By heavier-than-air gas, investigator Blayne Matthews of the district attorney's office said he meant gas which lay close to the floor.

Captain Earl W. J. Haugewood, in charge of the bureau of fire investigation, said he believed the gas might have been germinated by chemicals surreptitiously thrown on the floor during the night.

Bureau Refuses to Publish Editorial Views on Prohibition
Washington, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The prohibition bureau has decided not to make public the results of the prohibition questionnaire recently sent to 3,000 newspaper editors, Prohibition Directors. Woodcock announced today upon his return here from an inspection tour of the middle west.

It had been planned originally to publish the dry law views of various newspaper editors in a pamphlet. Woodcock declined to give any reason for the bureau's change of attitude.

After an all night search by police in squad cars equipped with machine guns, it was learned that the automobile whose license plates had been noted by a suspicious motorist belonged to a local physician.

Henry Taylor, the doctor's son and St. Paul academy student, told officers the victim was a neophyte who had been bound and gagged and then made to walk across the bridge counting the planks. Taylor said it was part of the initiation into Skyhawk high school fraternity.

PAIR, EXHAUSTED, LAY ON SHORE SIX HRS. BEFORE FOUND

BOAT CAPSIZES, MEN MAKE WAY TO GULL RIVER BANK, ONE UNABLE TO MOVE

DRAWING CONTINUES IN RIVER FOR BODY OF JOHN JACKSON WITHOUT SUCCESS

Bitterly exhausted and near death from exposure, two Brainerd hunters were recovering today after they had lain for six hours on the shore of Gull river where their boat capsized.

Victor Bourgeois, Sr., 45, 212 Fourth street W., boilermaker at the Northern Pacific shops and Frank Schelhorn, Northeast Brainerd, lay exhausted on the river bank a mile and a quarter south of the bridge over the river on the new so called Pine Beach road until found by a rescue party comprised of relatives and neighbors of the missing men.

Mr. Bourgeois was the most serious of the two. He suffered frozen hands and was unconscious when rescued. His companion had attempted to revive him for hours, had attempted to carry him to the road but had been forced to give up his attempts because of complete exhaustion.

The two men had swan, waded and crawled through weeds to reach the shore when their boat went down near midstream.

When the boat started filling the two tried to paddle to shore but the boat capsized before they could reach it. To better aid them in swimming they took off their coats and caps. Their guns were lost with the boat.

The pair had left Brainerd yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to hunt ducks. Mrs. Bourgeois remained in the car to await the return of the men at 6 p. m. When they failed to return on the appointed hour, Mrs. Bourgeois returned to Brainerd and her son, Victor, Jr., organized a search party.

The two were found at 11 p. m. Dragging operations continued on the Mississippi river today where the body of John Jackson, Brainerd who drowned Wednesday while duck hunting is sought.

Harold Dobson, Riverton, who was with Jackson and made a futile effort to save him was still in serious condition here as a result of exposure.

NORTHERNS MERGER REOPENED ON PLEA OF ELEVEN STATES

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION RECOGNIZES PROTESTS; NEW HEARINGS

DIVORCE OF HOLDINGS IN BURLINGTON FOUND UNSATISFACTORY TO RAILROADS

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The northwest states today claimed an initial victory in their battle against the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

The interstate commerce commission in Washington late yesterday decided to reopen the Northern merger case after 11 states had protested against the plan approved by the commissioners. The announcement was taken to mean that new hearings would be held possibly both in Washington and in the northwest and that a new proposal would be made to the railroads.

The offer of the interstate commerce commission that the merger could be effected if the Northern divorced their holdings in the Burlington had been found unsatisfactory to railroads, at least for the time being.

D. F. Jurgenson, chief engineer of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, claimed the rehearings as a decided victory for the opposing states. He said the general public which would be effected in rates by the merger and employees of the railroads would have a new opportunity to present their case at the rehearings.

The states affiliated with Minnesota in protesting the present approved plan for the merger were Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and Washington.

Ace Investigator to Trail Published Attacks on Farm Board to Source to Quell Propaganda

WILL SHARE WITH SHORT TRADING IN DEBATE THIS WINTER

McKELVIE WANTS TO KNOW WHO IS FINANCING THE DRIVE AGAINST BOARD

ATTACKS ON BOARD BEING CIRCULATED THROUGH MAIL, BOARD MEMBER SAYS

By LYLE C. WILSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 18.—A farm board complaint resulting in a federal trade commission inquiry appeared today to have opened another avenue for congressional investigation of the nation's grain trade.

Samuel R. McKelvie of the board has enlisted the commission in a fight against alleged propaganda of the "organized grain trade," which he says has been directed against the board. There is every likelihood that the action will echo in congressional debate this winter, along with the problem of Soviet short trading raised by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

The commission has assigned its ace investigator, Herbert L. Anderson, to the job of trailing published attacks on the farm board to their source. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska and one of the men responsible for President Hoover's pre-election pledge of a special farm relief session, wants to know who is financing the drive against the board.

Grain trade dissatisfaction with the farm board is an old story. Julius Barnes, personal associate of Mr. Hoover, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce and himself a big grain operator, criticized Chairman Legge, McKelvie and their colleagues several months ago. Grain men challenged the board's sponsorship of co-operative marketing organizations which have sliced deeply into the business ordinarily enjoyed by the commission men. There was a sharp give-and-take between Legge and Barnes over a period of weeks.

McKelvie said a paper in his state were publishing full advertisements attacking the board and that these were being circulated through the mails without identification of the senders. At the postoffice department it was said no complaint had been received through regular channels from the farm board.

The federal trade commission's interest would be concerned with the financing of the advertising and whether the public would be able to judge who sponsored it. The postoffice interest would be restricted to any failure to identify advertising as such.

Cannons Boom First Notes in Premiere of Symphony Concerts

Minneapolis, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Roaring cannons sounded the first notes last night of the world premiere of the Minneapolis Symphony concert series at the University of Minnesota.

After a mishap two years ago and considerable "artistic" opposition, the first concert series ever to be held at a university by a world famous symphony began with fire from a 75 millimeter anti-aircraft gun and a fanfare of trumpeters from Fort Snelling army post.

Two years ago a single concert by the symphony was to have had its gunfire inaugural but the wire which was to have given the artillerymen a signal failed to function. This year such a possibility was prevented by moving the gun to the roof of Northrop auditorium where the concert was held. Opposition to the gunfire entry of the "world premiere" claimed such tactics were undignified and even "outside the realm of art."

3 STUDENTS MEET DEATH IN CRASH

ROADSTER COLLIDES WITH MOVING VAN TOURING CAR; 3 VEHICLES PILE UP

Fredricksburg, Va., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Three university students were killed today in an automobile accident while on their way to the Navy-Duke football game at Annapolis, Md.

The dead were Fred Ingram, High Point, N. C., a student at North Carolina State, Raleigh; James Johnson, Trenton, N. J., and Henry Chapman, Hagerstown, Md. Johnson and Chapman were students at Duke university. A Miller, Baltimore, and James Jarett, Thomasville, both Duke students, were injured and are in a critical condition at Fredricksburg hospital.

The roadster in which the five students were traveling collided with a moving van near Thornburg, 14 miles south of here. When the light roadster resisted what he believed was towing another car, all three vehicles left the road and piled up in a shallow gully flanking the highway.

Charles Murray, Richmond, driver of the van, and Chandler McComb, also of Richmond, driver of the third car, are being held pending an inquest today. Murray suffered a dislocated knee.

OIL STOVE EXPLODES; FIRE HITS BUILDINGS

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Explosion of an oil stove in a restaurant today started a fire which damaged or destroyed several store buildings, injured two firemen, caused damage of $500,000, and for a time threatened to spread throughout the business district. The blaze was stopped when it reached a fireproof bank building.

KIDNAPERS FOILED, RIDDLE GAMBLER, WIFE WITH BULLETS

GAMBLING PROPRIETOR OPENS FIRE ON ASSAILANTS NEAR SHERIFF'S HOME

RETURN FIRE KILLS WIFE; GANGSTER HIT, ESCAPES BEFORE SHERIFF COMES

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Clyde Garrison, wealthy gambling house owner, was wounded, and his wife, Cora, 37, was killed instantly by machine gun bullets when Garrison last night resisted what he believed was an attempt by gangsters to kidnap him for ransom.

His right leg shattered by four sub machine gun bullets, Garrison declared today from a hospital cot that he felt certain the men who killed his wife were gangsters from Chicago or St. Louis and that he was positive he wounded one of them.

Police also expressed belief in the kidnapping theory and cited as proof the recent kidnappings of other wealthy Peoria gamblers, one of whom was held prisoner in the vicinity of Chicago for five days before he was released.

The officers declared they knew the names of Garrison's assailants and that arrests were expected.

Mrs. Garrison met her husband near his downtown gambling resort, The Windsor, late yesterday. They rode home together and into the garage at the rear of the house.

From an automobile parked a short distance away and directly in front of the home of Sheriff Grant Minor, a man called to them.

"Come here, Clyde, I want to see you."

Ignoring the call, Garrison and his wife started walking rapidly toward their house. Two men stepped from behind some bushes. One carried a sub machine gun. They called upon the couple to halt.

Garrison drew a revolver, opened fire, and emptied the gun before he was moved down by the return fire from the machine gunner. Mrs. Garrison was shot in the ear and once in the hip. Garrison said one of the gangster's fell, but that he was able to get up and, aided by his companion, ran to their automobile, speeding away before Sheriff Minor could get out of his house.

Hospital Nursing Diamond Gets Bombing Threat

New York, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Jack "Legs" Diamond, wounded gang leader, will be moved under heavy guard from Polyclinic hospital to the Metropolitan hospital on Welfare Island, it was reported today.

Decision to transfer Diamond, who has been in Polyclinic since he was shot and beaten last Sunday, came after hospital authorities received an anonymous warning that the hospital would be bombed.

A guard of 20 automobiles with policemen will escort the private coach to Welfare Island.

Cops Play Samaritans to Boys Starting Car, Revealed as Stolen

Chicago, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Police-men James Crowley and Timothy Dunn, who boast that they are good officers because they help people in distress, saw eight negro boys trying to start a stalled automobile.

The officers took off their coats, rolled up their sleeves and went to work. They pushed and they pulled and they cranked for two hours and then they said unkind things about it, but the car wouldn't start.

As they started on the third hour, their sergeant, Martin Keenan, drove by in a squad car. Noticing the perspiring and almost expiring condition of his two officers, he stopped, but not to help.

"Where'd you get this car?" he demanded sharply of one of the negro boys.

"Stole it," was the answer, and an investigation proved he was right.

UNTIMELY GAS LEAK BLAMED IN WRECK OF 11-STORY BUILDING

DETECTIVES DISCREDIT THEORY THAT BLAST CAUSED BY COMMUNISTS

ONLY TWO OF 50 INJURED IN $1,500,000 EXPLOSION ARE IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Los Angeles, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The terrific explosion that wrecked the 11-story Garment Capital building and shook the Los Angeles wholesale district remained unexplained today but authorities were inclined to believe it was accidental.

Although continuing to investigate theories that the $1,500,000 blast was the result of sabotage, police detectives said that most of the evidence indicated it was caused by an untimely gas leak which filled the building with fumes and needed only a spark to touch it off. A search for possible suspects was maintained.

Only two of the 50 persons injured by the force of the explosion were in serious condition. They were Herman Schulman, proprietor of the fifth floor establishment in which the explosion originated, and Irving Chavin, who was with Schulman.

A man who said he was J. P. Sexton, a chemist, telephoned the sheriff's office and claimed to have overheard several men planning to bomb the Garment Capital building. He said one was a communist. Sexton hung up when officers attempted to trace the call, saying he did not want to be "framed" but promised to be at a Vermont street address today.

Many theories as to cause of the explosion were offered. It was believed that Schulman started it accidentally when he opened the suite of the Beverly Hills Frocks, Inc., and pulled a switch to turn off the burglar alarm. Sparks which flew from the switch were believed to have ignited gas in the room, but the presence of the gas itself was a mystery.

Some of the theories advanced were that a petcock had been left open after a meter was removed and that gas filled the room after most of the windows in the Beverly Hills shop were closed for fumigation the night before the blast.

That trinitrotoluol was present in the room. This was a police chemist theory.

That a length of pipe had been removed from a gas line in the room.

That a "heavier-than-air" gas had been injected into the building and that the burglar alarm switch was tampered with so that it would spark and ignite the gas. By heavier-than-air gas, Investigator Blayne Matthews of the district attorney's office said he meant gas which lay close to the floor.

Captain Earl W. J. Haugwood, in charge of the bureau of fire investigation, said he believed the gas might have been germinated by chemicals surreptitiously thrown on the floor during the night.

Bureau Refuses to Publish Editorial Views on Prohibition

Washington, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The prohibition bureau has decided not to make public the results of the prohibition questionnaire recently sent to 3,000 newspaper editors. Prohibition Director Woodcock announced today upon his return here from an inspection tour of the middle west.

It had been planned originally to publish the dry law views of various newspaper editors in a pamphlet. Woodcock declined to give any reason for the bureau's change of attitude.

PAIR, EXHAUSTED, LAY ON SHORE SIX HRS. BEFORE FOUND

BOAT CAPSIZES, MEN MAKE WAY TO GULL RIVER BANK, ONE UNABLE TO MOVE

DRAGGING CONTINUES IN RIVER FOR BODY OF JOHN JACKSON WITHOUT SUCCESS

Bitterly exhausted and near death from exposure, two Brainerd hunters, were recovering today after they had lain for six hours on the shore of Gull river where their boat capsized.

Victor Bourgeois, Sr., 45, 212 Fourth street W., boilermaker at the Northern Pacific shops and Frank Schellhorn, Northeast Brainerd, lay exhausted on the river bank a mile and a quarter south of the bridge over the river on the new so called Pine Beach road until found by a rescue party comprised of relatives and neighbors of the missing men.

Mr. Bourgeois was the most serious of the two. He suffered frozen hands and was unconscious when rescued. His companion had attempted to revive him for hours, had attempted to carry him to the road but had been forced to give up his attempts because of complete exhaustion.

The two men had swan, waded and crawled through weeds to reach the shore when their boat went down near midstream.

When the boat started filling the two tried to paddle to shore but the boat capsized before they could reach it. To better aid them in swimming they took off their coats and caps. Their guns were lost with the boat.

Teh pair had left Brainerd yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to hunt ducks. Mrs. Bourgeois remained in the car to await the return of the men at 6 p. m. When they failed to return on the appointed hour, Mrs. Bourgeois returned to Brainerd and her son, Victor, Jr., organized a search party.

The two were found at 11 p. m. Dragging operations continued on the Mississippi river today where the body of John Jackson, Brainerd who drowned Wednesday while duck hunting is sought.

Harold Dobson, Riverton, who was with Jackson and made a futile effort to save him was still in serious condition here as a result of exposure.

NORTHERNS MERGER REOPENED ON PLEA OF ELEVEN STATES

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION RECOGNIZES PROTESTS; NEW HEARINGS

DIVORCE OF HOLDINGS IN BURLINGTON FOUND UNSATISFACTORY TO RAILROADS

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The northwest states today claimed an initial victory in their battle against the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

The interstate commerce commission in Washington late yesterday decided to reopen the Northern merger case after 11 states had protested against the plan approved by the commission.

The announcement was taken to mean that new hearings would be held possibly both in Washington and in the northwest and that a new proposal would be made to the railroads. The offer of the interstate commerce commission that the merger could be effected if the Northern's divorced their holdings in the Burlington had been found unsatisfactory to the railroads, at least for the time being.

D. F. Jurgenson, chief engineer of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, claimed the rehearings as a decided victory for the opposing states. He said the general public which would be effected in rates by the merger and employees of the railroads would have a new opportunity to present their case at the rehearings.

The states affiliated with Minnesota in protesting the present approved plan for the merger were Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and Washington.

HIGH BRIDGE MURDER TURNS OUT TO BE INITIATION PRANK

St. Paul, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The "high bridge murder case" was solved today.

After an all night search by police in squad cars equipped with machine guns, it was learned that the automobile whose license plates had been noted by a suspicious motorist belonged to a local physician.

Henry Taylor, the doctor's son and St. Paul academy student, told officers the victim was a neophyte who had been bound and gagged and then made to walk across the bridge counting the planks. Taylor said it was part of the initiation into Skylark high school fraternity.

SYMPHONY GROUP TO APPEAR HERE

Range Musicians to Recognize Request by Playing Return Concert Here Nov. 9

The Range Symphony Orchestra, Maestro Luigi Lombardi, conductor, will make its second appearance in Brainerd on Sunday evening, November 9 at the Washington high school auditorium.

The orchestra is playing in Brainerd en route to St. Cloud where they will give a concert November 10, the opening of the Lyceum course at the St. Cloud Teachers college. They have consented to make this appearance in Brainerd following several requests from those who heard them in their concert last year.

Brainerd music lovers are most fortunate in being able to again hear this famous orchestra, and will no doubt show their loyal support. By doing so, it may be possible for the Symphony to make an annual appearance in Brainerd.

It was in June, 1929 when Maestro Lombardi and his renowned orchestra made their first appearance in the city, making a deep impression on the audience. Several in Brainerd are endeavoring to have these artists come here annually, and if this could be arranged, it would mean one more step toward Brainerd's advancement in the music world. The Range Symphony orchestra is composed of 50 musicians.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

London sends word that "The fashions in pets this season is verging on the extravagant. There are women who take frogs with them wherever they go; others who wear live snakes around their throats; others who prefer the companionship of monkeys. All this puts men, as pets, in the lowest category of feminine preferences—which as pets is where they should be."

But not where they would be. Men like being pets. In fact they like it better than monkeys and as frogs—if a man were as cold and clammy and as spotted and green and horrible as a frog women would pet him much. But when women run out of ideas to get themselves into the public prints they will connect with anything that will net them past the disgusted editors into large type. Some of them marry for no other reason and divorce the same way.

The kind of men who will vie with a snake or a frog for the favors of a woman, belong in somebody's psychopathic ward.

As for the snake about her neck—the Lord in his mercy and wisdom will surely see that no stork gets near her chimneys. Fancy a child putting its arm around a woman who had just been embraced by a snake! The word woman seems a little out of place pinned to such a person.

I suppose some of our dumb friend's benefactors will say that God made snakes and frogs and they are good. But I don't even want to believe that he made snakes. I think snakes always creep into pictures to the horror of everybody concerned. I do think he might have permitted snakebite-cure to be made, after the snakes appeared. The best thing that snakes do is creep in. Even those in plays that wear skirts and jewelry.

The only reason women could have for wearing snakes, is to keep away the men who are in love with them. It will do that.

Snake charming is a business. But making ones self charming with snakes is insanity. Or isn't it?

SYMPHONY GROUP TO APPEAR HERE

Range Musicians to Recognize Request by Playing Return Concert Here Nov. 9

The Range Symphony Orchestra, Maestro Luigi Lombardi, conductor, will make its second appearance in Brainerd on Sunday evening, November 9 at the Washington high school auditorium.

The orchestra is playing in Brainerd en route to St. Cloud where they will give a concert November 10, the opening of the Lyceum course at the St. Cloud Teachers college. They have consented to make this appearance in Brainerd following several requests from those who heard them in their concert last year.

Brainerd music lovers are most fortunate in being able to again hear this famous orchestra, and will no doubt show their loyal support. By doing so, it may be possible for the Symphony to make an annual appearance in Brainerd.

It was in June, 1929 when Maestro Lombardi and his renowned orchestra made their first appearance in the city, making a deep impression on the audience. Several in Brainerd are endeavoring to have these artists come here annually, and if this could be arranged, it would mean one more step toward Brainerd's advancement in the music world. The Range Symphony orchestra is composed of 50 musicians.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

London sends word that "The fashions in pets this season is verging on the extravagant. There are women who take frogs with them wherever they go; others who wear live snakes around their throats; others who prefer the companionship of monkeys. All this puts men, as pets, in the lowest category of feminine preferences—which as pets is where they should be."

But not where they would be. Men like being pets. In fact they like it better than monkeys and as for frogs—if a man were as cold and clammy and as spotted and green and horrible as a frog women would pet him much. But when women run out of ideas to get themselves into the public prints they will connect with anything that will net them past the disgusted editors into large type. Some of them marry for no other reason and divorce the same way.

The kind of men who will vie with a snake or a frog for the favors of a woman, belong in somebody's psychopathic ward.

As for the snake about her neck—the Lord in his mercy and wisdom will surely see that no stork gets near her chimneys. Fancy a child putting its arm around a woman who had just been embraced by a snake! The word woman seems a little out of place pinned to such a person.

I suppose some of our dumb friend's benefactors will say that God made snakes and frogs and they are good. But I don't even want to believe that he made snakes. I think snakes always creep into pictures to the horror of everybody concerned. I do think he might have permitted snakebite-cure to be made, after the snakes appeared. The best thing that snakes do is creep in. Even those in plays that wear skirts and jewelry.

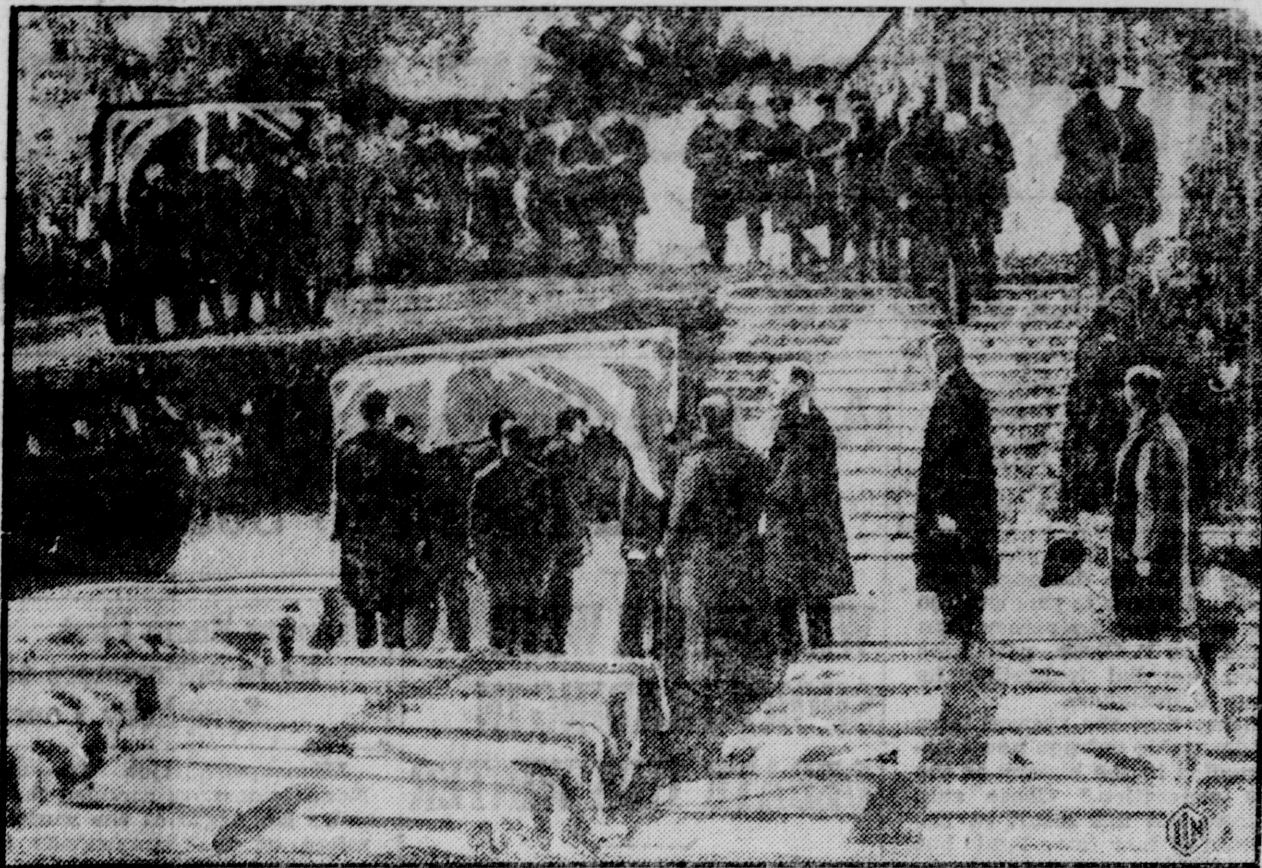

The only reason women could have for wearing snakes, is to keep away the men who are in love with them. It will do that.

Snake charming is a business. But making ones self charming with snakes is insanity. Or isn't it?

Another Nature Fake

Many a girl who thinks that her lover is a dear finds out after marrying that after all he is nothing but an old bear.—New Albany Tribune.

RADIO AND AVIATION

Sometimes when looking back at what has been accomplished in the past, one might think that radio development has gone about as far as it can. But that is decidedly not true. There remain many virgin fields for the application of radio in which there is much work to be done. This is particularly true of airplane radio.

Radio telegraphic communication from flying planes to land and vice versa has, of course, been an accomplished fact for some time and speech has also been successfully transmitted over short distances. But radio telephone communication between airplanes and land stations still leaves much to be desired.

Looking Ahead

I have in mind, for example, the time when it will be possible for a passenger in a commercial airplane over a regular air route to communicate by telephone with his home, his office, or any other place he desires. Some day radio telephony from airplanes will be as common as ordinary wire telephony in the home today.

To accomplish this will require many improvements in existing equipment. Present systems must be made more efficient and capable of operating over greater distances. The size and weight of the apparatus must be reduced to a minimum.

It was with such developments in mind that we recently purchased Captain William S. Brock's record-breaking plane, which is equipped with a small broadcast transmitter and receiver. During the recent National Air Reliability Tour covering 4500 miles, this plane was in frequent daily communication with the land, and proved the practicability of broadcasting from an airplane, even under adverse conditions.

This plane will be used as a flying laboratory for the development of airplane radio. New ideas will be tried out in it to prove their worth and help pave the way for the improvements that will eventually make radio broadcasting and receiving apparatus standard equipment for every commercial airplane.

Waste of County Road Money

THE investigation now being made by the State Examiners department into the County Engineers department, so far has resulted in only two charges of criminal culpability, but it has disclosed a waste of county road money that is alarming.

For example, it has been revealed that a Crosby citizen was paid $4.00 per day and $3.60 mileage per day for guarding road signs, about a dozen in number, or $611.20 for the season. This same man was paid $2,211.25 for testing for gravel pits in four towns, and $167.68 for repairing guard rails, or a total of $2,990.13.

Another Crosby citizen was paid $500 for inspecting the building of a bridge that cost $1,145.00.

These are examples of waste revealed by the examiners, who will conclude their work shortly, it is reported.

It surely will be a great service to the taxpayers of the county if this examination instituted by County Attorney Sullivan will result in eliminating this waste of the county road funds in the future.

Mining in Minnesota

AT Tyler Ray P. Chase, Republican candidate for governor, delivered an address in which he took up the subject of mining in Minnesota. It is of interest to Crow Wing county as he considered the Cuyuna iron range. He said in part:

"Prolongation of the life of its great mining industry is vitally important to Minnesota. In 1850, surveyors along the International Boundary found the Gunflint iron ore deposits. Toward the close of the 60's gold seekers about Vermilion Lake found the iron mines of Tower. The first shipment of ore from Minnesota was made in 1884. The Mesabi iron range was discovered in the later 80's and began shipping ore in 1892. The Cuyuna range entered the producing list in 1911. From 1884 to date nearly a billion tons of iron ore have been shipped from the state, a tonnage sufficient to relay with the heaviest steel and double track, the railroads of the world.

"The first ore shipped from the state averaged much higher in quality than that taken today. By improvements in mining, shipping and furnace, a lower grade of ore now may be used. Some 20 years ago there was estimated to be 1,250,000,000 tons of merchantable ore left in the state. Because of the improvements referred to, the discovery of new deposits, the extension of ore bodies being operated, and methods of beneficiation practiced, the remaining tonnage today is but little under that of a score of years ago, even though in the meantime 700,000,000 tons have been removed.

"The State of Minnesota owns approximately one-eighth of all the iron ore bearing lands of the state. In 1889 all minerals were reserved when its lands were sold in Cook, Lake, and St. Louis counties. In 1901 this reservation was extended by law to all lands sold by the state.

"The policy of leasing state iron ore lands as against their sale was adopted in 1889. Several hundred leases were issued before the law was repealed in 1907. The rate of royalty was 25 cents per gross ton. Under these leases more than 100,000,000 tons of ore have been shipped. The supervision of operations under the leases was placed in the State Auditor's office. At an early date he adopted the policy of conserving all sub-standard ores by insisting that they be stocked on state lands if necessarily removed in mining operations. In underground mines low grade ores, capping merchantable tonnages, are left in place with the supporting better grades, if there is a fair presumption that all will be merchantable within a reasonable time. 'Dead lines' are drawn through the deposits within which no lean ores are to be undercut and caved. Ores not capable of present known methods of beneficiation, necessarily removed in open pit mines, are classified as to structure and iron content and stocked separately. Iron bearing rock is not capable of concentration by present methods, hence when moved from its place in the open pits, it is stocked by itself.

"The University of Minnesota at its School of Mines and at the Mines Experiment Station is doing much good work in the way of utilizing the sub-standard ores. The Legislature provides a small fund for this work, but the school co-operates with the mining companies in working out new processes. From a scientific standpoint any iron bearing material may be made to surrender its iron, at least in a laboratory. What remains to be done is to devise means of doing this work on a commercial scale.

"Another important fact to be taken into consideration in the work of prolonging the life of the mining industry is that the present mining district is equipped with all facilities for the production of ore. Railroads, wagon roads, cities, miners' homes, schools, are all there. If the industry is permitted to go into serious decline, these very necessary instrumentalities will fall into decay or disappear entirely.

"Intermingled with the iron ore of the Cuyuna Range, manganese is found. The importance of this element was forced upon the attention of the world during the Great War. The country had no manganese mines of its own and had been dependent upon Russia, India, and Brazil for this most important mineral in the production of high duty steel. The foreign supply was cut off by war and the nation was forced to call upon the manganiferous ores of Minnesota. Many such properties were feverishly opened, but the close of hostilities brought back the foreign high grade manganese ores, thus forcing the mines to close. The University of Minnesota investigated the matter of separating the manganese from the iron, but more work should be done. Congress placed a duty on foreign manganese which has enabled some of the mines to reopen. We must develop a plan whereby the nation may be freed in time of war from dependence upon foreign countries for this important element; one which, at the same time, will build a great industry in our state.

"Iron ores of Minnesota today are being subjected to numerous processes of beneficiation. There are plants for washing, crushing, screening, jigging, drying, and sintering them to improve the grade or structure. All do fine work, but constant improvements in machinery are being made. More intensive work should be begun now, under the supervision of trained experts, in co-operation with men of business experience. If research is delayed until the direct shipping ore is reduced in volume until it can no longer be used to 'sweeten' the lower grades or to help reduce the cost of beneficiating ores, there will be a serious slump in the industry. Any such slump, accompanied by unusual tax burdens, will operate as a bonus, paid by Minnesota, toward the development of iron resources elsewhere.

"If elected governor, it will be my earnest effort to encourage by every proper means, beneficiation and use of low grade ores, that the permanent trust funds of the state may be prolonged, that the life of the mining industry may be prolonged, that the people of the whole state may be benefited."

Navy Day, October 27

OCTOBER 27 will be Navy Day. Through it the sponsors of the observance seek to take some thought to the public of the Navy and the part it plays in our national life.

The Navy League of the United States has been active in having this day observed and in spreading information about the importance of the Navy, its duties and personnel, etc. The Secretary of the Navy has assured the public that on Navy Day a welcome will be extended by naval vessels in port and in naval establishments ashore. The Navy Department will be glad to do anything it properly can to acquaint our citizens with their sea service.

Navy Day, through the interest given it by the Navy League of the United States and the aid offered the League by patriotic, veteran, and civic organizations, undoubtedly has brought to the American people a better understanding of the Navy, its activities, its needs and its purposes, particularly its essential relation to the prosperity which comes from our nation's sea-borne commerce.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

DAN'L had had no chance to straighten the lance; it was bent at right angles in the middle. When Brander and the seaman rolled on the floor, Dan'l lifted the weapon to bring it down like a hoe on Brander's back. The struggling men rolled away; the blade struck and stuck in the planking of the floor.

Brander got his man's throat and crushed it, so that the man lay still. Dan'l was tugging to get the blade free of the wood. Then Faith appeared in the doorway of the after cabin. She was weak and sick and trembling; she gripped the door-post with her left hand. With her right she lifted a revolver.

"Dan'l," she cried, "stop!"

His back was turned toward her; but at her word he whirled, saw her, and sprang toward her, roaring. Brander was too far away to come between. Faith waited till Dan'l was within six feet of her; then she lowered her weapon's muzzle and shot him through the knee. He fell on his face at her feet, utterly disabled, and the senses went out of him.

As the echoes of the shot died in that narrow space, a great quiet settled down upon the Sally Sims.

What shadows remained Roy was able to clear away—Roy, who had hated both Brander and Faith, yet in whom lived a strain of true blood that could not but answer to the good in these two in the end. The evil in Dan'l had been writ in his face for any man to see, when Roy found him clutching Faith; and Roy was not blind.

The boy abashed himself; he was pitifully ashamed. Still hoarse from the choking Dan'l had given him, he told how he had stolen the whisky at the man's bidding—a little at first, a ten-gallon keg in the end. He told how he had himself filled the jug in Brander's boat with the liquor, and had hidden a bottle in Mauger's bank, and had lied to old Tichel in the matter. He told the whole tale, and made his peace with them, while Faith and Brander watched each other over the boy's sobbing head with eloquent eyes.

For the rest—Silva was dead, and they buried him in the sand of the beach. Mauger had a shallow knife-slit along his ribs; Willis Cox had a broken jaw. The others had suffered nothing worse than bruises, save only Dan'l Tobey. Dan'l's knee was smashed and splintered, and he lay in a stupor in the cabin, Willis watching beside him.

Those who had fled to the boats came shamefully back at last. Faith and Brander met them at the rail, and Faith spoke to them. They had done wrong, she told them, but there was a chance of wiping out the score by bending to the toil she set them. They were already sick of adventuring; they swarmed aboard like homesick boys. She and Brander told them what to do, and drove them to it.

Before that day was gone they had half her load out of the Sally, and at full tide that night, with every hand tugging at a line or breasting a capstan-bar, they hauled her off. She slid an inch, two inches, four. She moved a foot, three feet. They freed her by sheer power of their determination that she must come free. Then the boats lowered, and towed her safe off shore, and anchored her there.

After that it took three days to get the casks inbound again and stowed below. In those three days Dan'l Tobey passed from suffering to delirium. Brander had tended his wound as best he could, but the bone was splintered and the flesh was shattered, and there came an hour when the flesh about the wound turned green and black.

"He's got to lose either leg or life," Brander told Faith.

She did not ask him if he were sure; she knew him well enough now never to doubt him again. But Dan'l, in an interval of lucidity, had heard.

"Take it off, Brander," he croaked. "Take it off. Get the ax, man!"

Brander bent over him.

"I'll do my best for you," Dan'l grinned with the old jeer in his eyes.

"Aye, I've no doubt, Mr. Brander. Go at it, man!"

They had not so much as a vial of morphia to deaden the pain, and Dan'l slumped into delirium at the first stroke of the knife, which Brander had whittled to a razor keenness. His body twitched in the grip of Willis Cox and Loum. Faith helped Brander to tie the arteries; Roy stood by to give what aid he could.

When it was done Faith said the Sally would lie at anchor till Dan'l died or mended; and in two weeks Brander told her the man would live. She nodded.

"Then we'll go out and fill our casks," she said. "And then for home!"

Brander looked at her with shining eyes.

"Aye, fill our casks," he agreed, as if it were the most natural thing in the world to stick to that task till it was done.

They put to sea.

Dan'l was going to live; but the man was broken. He could not quit his bunk through the months of the homeward cruise; he was wasted by the fury of his own passions, by the shock of his crippling injury. He had aged; there was no longer any strength in the man. So old Tichel came into his own at last; he became the titular master of the ship, and Faith was content to let him hold the reins, so long as he did as she desired.

Willis Cox yielded precedence to Brander; Brander was mate. When they sighted whales, all three of them lowered while Faith kept ship. Their work had been nearly done before Noll died; they lacked less than a dozen waists to fill. Young Roy, to his vast content, was allowed to take out a boat and kill one of that last dozen, while Brander, in his boat, lay watchfully by.

Came a day when the trying-out was done that Brander went to Faith.

"We're bung up," he said. "The last cask's sweating full."

Faith nodded happily, and swung to Mr. Tichel.

"Then let's for home," she said.

For the rest, the story tells itself. They hauled in to the nearest island port, where they re-cooped the water-casks and took on wood and water for the five months' homeward way. They stocked with potatoes and vegetables. The crew's nests came down, and to gallantmasters were set to carry canvas on the passage. The gear was stripped from the whale-boats and stowed away, and two of the boats were lashed atop the boat-house with the spars. The rigging had a touch of tar, the hull and spars took a lick of paint, the woodwork shone with scraping.

So, to sea. The first day out saw the dismantling of the try-works; and broken bricks flew overside for half that day, all hands joining in the sport of it. Then a clean deck, and a stout northwest wind behind them, and the long easterly stretch to the Horn was begun.

That homeward cruise was a pleasant time for Faith and Brander. They were much together, speaking little, speaking not at all of themselves; save once when Faith said, smiling at him shyly:

"I knew you hadn't done it, even when I told them to put you in irons."

He nodded.

"I knew you knew."

They both understood; their eyes said what their lips were not yet ready to say.

There was a reticence upon them. Faith, on the deck of her husband's ship, still felt the shadow of Noll Wing in her life.

Brander, too, felt its presence. It made neither of them unhappy; they respected it. Faith was never ashamed of Noll. He had been a man. She had loved him; she was proud that he had loved her.

Day by day they were together, on deck or below, while the winds worked for them and the stars in their courses watched over them. Through the chill of Southern waters they rounded the cape. Tichel, looking back at it, waved his hand in valedictory.

"What are you thinking, Mr. Tichel?" Faith asked.

"Saying good-bye to old Cape Stiff, there," he chuckled. "I'll not come this way again."

"Yes, you will," she told him. "You're captain of your own ship now, and you'll be next cruise."

He shook his head.

"I know when I'm well off, young lady," he persisted. "Old Tichel's ready to stick ashore now."

She left him staring back across the dull, cold sea. He stood there stiffly till the night came down upon the waters.

After that they struck warmer winds, with a pleasant ocean all about the scud of spray sweet upon their cheeks, and the Sally fat with oil beneath their feet. It was a happy time, when Faith and Brander, with never a word and never a touch of hands, grew close as man and woman can grow.

Never a cloud in the skies from their last kill to the day they picked up the tug that shunted them alongside their wharf at home.

There are many things that never get into the log. Faith had no vengeful heart toward Dan'l; the man had reaped what he sowed. With the Sally, Noll Wing's ship, safe home again, she was willing to forget what had passed. She told Dan'l Silva was dead; the others had been but instruments. The matter was done.

Dan'l, possessed by a creeping apathy, nodded his thanks to her and turned away his head. The man was dying where he lay; he would not long survive.

Old Jem Kilcup was at the wharf to hug Faith against his broad chest—an older Jem than when she went away, but a glad Jem to see her home again. Jonathan felt was with him, asking anxiously for Noll. When Faith told him Noll was gone, old Jonathan fell sorrowfully silent. The whole town would mourn Noll; he had been one of its heroes.

"He's dead, sir," Faith said proudly; "but this was his fastest cruise. Noll Wing never brought home a better cargo than he's sent now."

"You're full?" asked Jonathan.

"Aye, every cask, and more," said Faith.

She told him of the ambergris. She gave Brander so much credit for that, and for other things, that Jonathan hooked his arm in that of the young man and walked with him thus when they all went to the office to hear Cap'n Tichel make his report.

Jem sat there listening, with proud eyes on Faith, while Tichel told the story, and Faith listened and looked now and then at Brander, where he stood in the shadows by the window. In the end Tichel said straightforwardly that he was content with what life had brought him, that he was through with the sea. But he pointed toward Brander.

"There's a man that'll beat Noll Wing's best for you," he said.

Jonathan got up, a spry old figure, and crossed to grip Brander by the hand.

"You'll take out a ship o' mine?" he asked.

Brander hesitated, and his eyes crossed to meet Faith's, as if to ask permission. Faith nodded faintly.

"Yes, sir, if you like," he said.

"I do like," said Jonathan briskly. "That's settled then."

Faith and Willis went back to the ship. Old Jem and Jonathan and Faith and Brander talked together a little longer. And it came to pass that Faith and Brander drew apart by the window, whence they could look down the length of the littered wharf to the Sally. They stood with shoulders touching, looking at the ship, thinking many things.

After a time he forgot the ship and turned to her, and she lifted to his eyes her eyes that offered everything. He said a little huskily:

"I've much to say to you that's never been said. Will you let me come to your home this night for the saying?"

She smiled gloriously.

"Do come!" she said.

End.

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

HENRY N. BENSON,
Attorney General.

St. Paul, Minnesota, February 27, 1930.

HONORABLE MIKE HOLM,
Secretary of State.

In compliance with the provisions of section 46, General Statutes 1929, I furnish you herewith a statement of the purpose and effect of proposed amendments to the constitution of the state of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election in 1930, and to make certain certain acts adopted by the legislature at the 1929 session thereof.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 429, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 3 of article 10 of the constitution relating to corporations. This section now reads as follows:

"Each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, shall be liable for the amount of stock held or owned by him."

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"The Legislature shall have power from time to time to provide for, limit and otherwise regulate the liability of stockholders or members of corporations and co-operative corporations or associations, however organized. Provided every stockholder or association shall be individually liable in an amount equal to the amount of stock owned by him for all debts of such corporation contracted prior to any transfer of such stock and such individual liability shall continue for one year after any transfer of such stock, and the entire amount thereof on the books of the corporation or association."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment: The Constitution, as it now stands, makes every stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing or mechanical business, liable for the debts of the corporation, if the corporate assets are insufficient to pay the debts, up to an amount equal to the par value of the stock held or owned by him, in addition to any sum that he may owe the corporation or association of two stock. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to prescribe and regulate by law the liability of stockholders in all corporations, co-operative corporations or associations created under the laws of this state (except banking or trust corporations or associations) entirely within the power of the legislature, and to change from time to time as the legislature may see fit.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment: If adopted, will be to abrogate the present fixed rule of stockholders' liability prescribed by the constitution, except in the case of stockholders in banks or trust companies, and to place the matter of prescribing and regulating the liability of stockholders in all corporations, co-operative corporations or associations created under the laws of this state (except banking or trust corporations or associations) entirely within the power of the legislature, and to change from time to time as the legislature may see fit.

Stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations are now liable in an amount equal to the amount of stock owned by them.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

By the adoption of Chapter 430, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 2, article 6 of the Constitution, relating to the supreme court. This section now reads as follows:

"The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in the cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

Pursuant to the authority granted by this section the legislature has created the number of associate justices to four.

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment: The supreme court, as now organized under the constitution, consists of a chief justice, and four associate justices, all elected by the people. In 1918, in order to take care of the increasing business of the court, the legislature passed a law providing for the appointment of commissioners to assist the court in the performance of its duties. The act under which these commissioners are appointed provides that each shall receive the same compensation as a justice of the supreme court, and also provides that if, by amendment to the constitution, the number of associate justices shall be increased to six the office of commissioner shall without further act be abolished.

In practice the commissioners sit as members of the court, hear arguments, read briefs, take part in discussions, write opinions, and in general do the same work as the regular justices, but they have no vote in determining the final decisions of the court. The legislature cannot give the commissioners a voice in the decisions of the court, since the organization of the court is governed by the constitution.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to provide for the election of two more associate justices with full authority as members of the court, to take the place of the present two commissioners, who will then cease to hold office.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment: The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to provide for the election of two more associate justices of the supreme court with full authority as members of the court, replacing the present two commissioners, without additional expense.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

FIXING NUMBER OF SUPREME COURT JUSTICES.

Amendment of Section 2, Article 6, of the Constitution, to make provision for two elective associate justices of the supreme court to take the place of the federal commissioners now appointed by legislative authority.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

By the adoption of Chapter 431, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to article 5 of the Constitution by adding thereto a new section to be known as section 8, and reading as follows:

"Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may be exchanged for lands of the United States as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the same use as to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment: By section 2 of article 8 of the Constitution school and swamp lands owned by the state may not be disposed of other than at public sale. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to abrogate this requirement in so far as the disposal of such lands to the federal government is concerned by authorizing the legislature to provide for the making of direct exchange with the United States of such state lands in return for lands owned by the federal government.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment: The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to abrogate, under such conditions and regulations as the legislature may prescribe, and to the extent necessary to effectuate exchanges of state, school and swamp lands for lands owned by the federal government, the rule requiring the disposal of school and swamp lands only by public sale. Such abrogation and the consequent provision for exchange of lands in pursuance of legislative enactment authorized by the proposed amendment will not impair or diminish the funds of the state arising from the sale of school and swamp lands, since the proceeds of sales of federal lands so acquired by exchange must, under the proposed amendment, be deposited to the credit of such trust funds.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

EXCHANGE OF STATE AND FEDERAL LANDS.

Amendment of Article 8 of the Constitution, authorizing the exchange of public lands of the State for lands of the United States, as the legislature may provide.

Waste of County Road Money

THE investigation now being made by the State Examiners department into the County Engineers department, so far has resulted in only two charges of criminal culpability, but it has disclosed a waste of county road money that is alarming.

For example, it has been revealed that a Crosby citizen was paid $4.00 per day and $3.60 mileage per day for guarding road signs, about a dozen in number, or $611.20 for the season. This same man was paid $2,211.25 for testing for gravel pits in four towns, and $167.68 for repairing guard rails, or a total of $2,990.13.

Another Crosby citizen was paid $500 for inspecting the building of a bridge that cost $1,145.00.

These are examples of waste revealed by the examiners, who will conclude their work shortly, it is reported.

It surely will be a great service to the taxpayers of the county if this examination instituted by County Attorney Sullivan will result in eliminating this waste of the county road funds in the future.

Mining in Minnesota

At Tyler Ray P. Chase, Republican candidate for governor, delivered an address in which he took up the subject of mining in Minnesota. It is of interest to Crow Wing county as he considered the Cuyuna iron range. He said in part:

"Prolongation of the life of its great mining industry is vitally important to Minnesota. In 1850, surveyors along the International Boundary found the Gunflint iron ore deposits. Toward the close of the 60's gold seekers about Vermilion Lake found the iron mines of Tower. The first shipment of ore from Minnesota was made in 1884. The Mesabi iron range was discovered in the later 80's and began shipping ore in 1892. The Cuyuna range entered the producing list in 1911. From 1884 to date nearly a billion tons of iron ore have been shipped from the state, a tonnage sufficient to relay with the heaviest steel and double track, the railroads of the world.

"The first ore shipped from the state averaged much higher in quality than that taken today. By improvements in mining, shipping and furnace, a lower grade of ore now may be used. Some 20 years ago there was estimated to be 1,250,000,000 tons of merchantable ore left in the state. Because of the improvements referred to, the discovery of new deposits, the extension of ore bodies being operated, and methods of beneficiation practiced, the remaining tonnage today is but little under that of a score of years ago, even though in the meantime 700,000,000 tons have been removed.

"The State of Minnesota owns approximately one-eighth of all the iron ore bearing lands of the state. In 1889 all minerals were reserved when its lands were sold in Cook, Lake, and St. Louis counties. In 1901 this reservation was extended by law to all lands sold by the state.

"The policy of leasing state iron ore lands as against their sale was adopted in 1889. Several hundred leases were issued before the law was repealed in 1907. The rate of royalty was 25 cents per gross ton. Under these leases more than 100,000,000 tons of ore have been shipped. The supervision of operations under the leases was placed in the State Auditor's office. At an early date he adopted the policy of conserving all sub-standard ores by insisting that they be stocked on state lands if necessarily removed in mining operations. In underground mines, low grade ores, capping merchantable tonnages, are left in place with the supporting better grades, if there is a fair presumption that all will be merchantable within a reasonable time. 'Dead lines' are drawn through the deposits within which no lean ores are to be undercut and caved. Ores not capable of present known methods of beneficiation, necessarily removed in open pit mines, are classified as to structure and iron content and stocked separately. Iron bearing rock is not capable of concentration by present methods, hence when moved from its place in the open pits, it is stocked by itself.

"The University of Minnesota at its School of Mines and at the Mines Experiment Station is doing much good work in the way of utilizing the sub-standard ores. The Legislature provides a small fund for this work, but the school co-operates with the mining companies in working out new processes. From a scientific standpoint any iron bearing material may be made to surrender its iron, at least in a laboratory. What remains to be done is to devise means of doing this work on a commercial scale.

"Another important fact to be taken into consideration in the work of prolonging the life of the mining industry is that the present mining district is equipped with all facilities for the production of ore. Railroads, wagon roads, cities, miners' homes, schools, are all there. If the industry is permitted to go into serious decline, these very necessary instrumentalities will fall into decay or disappear entirely.

"Intermingled with the iron ore of the Cuyuna Range, manganese is found. The importance of this element was forced upon the attention of the world during the Great War. The country had no manganese mines of its own and had been dependent upon Russia, India, and Brazil for this most important mineral in the production of high duty steel. The foreign supply was cut off by war and the nation was forced to call upon the manganiferous ores of Minnesota. Many such properties were feverishly opened, but the close of hostilities brought back the foreign high grade manganese ores, thus forcing the mines to close. The University of Minnesota investigated the matter of separating the manganese from the iron, but more work should be done. Congress placed a duty on foreign manganese which has enabled some of the mines to reopen. We must develop a plan whereby the nation may be freed in time of war from dependence upon foreign countries for this important element; one which, at the same time, will build a great industry in our state.

"Iron ores of Minnesota today are being subjected to numerous processes of beneficiation. There are plants for washing, crushing, screening, jigging, drying, and sintering them to improve the grade or structure. All do fine work, but constant improvements in machinery are being made. More intensive work should be begun now, under the supervision of trained experts, in co-operation with men of business experience. If research is delayed until the direct shipping ore is reduced in volume until it can no longer be used to 'sweeten' the lower grades or to help reduce the cost of beneficiating ores, there will be a serious slump in the industry. Any such slump, accompanied by unusual tax burdens, will operate as a bonus, paid by Minnesota, toward the development of iron resources elsewhere.

"If elected governor, it will be my earnest effort to encourage by every proper means, beneficiation and use of low grade ores, that the permanent trust funds of the state may be increased, that the life of the mining industry may be prolonged, that the people of the whole state may be benefited."

Navy Day, October 27

OCTOBER 27 will be Navy Day. Through it the sponsors of the observance seek to take some thought to the public of the Navy and the part it plays in our national life.

The Navy League of the United States has been active in having this day observed and in spreading information about the importance of the Navy, its duties and personnel, etc. The Secretary of the Navy has assured the public that on Navy Day a welcome will be extended by naval vessels in port and in naval establishments ashore. The Navy Department will be glad to do anything it properly can to acquaint our citizens with their sea service.

Navy Day, through the interest given it by the Navy League of the United States and the aid offered the League by patriotic, veteran, and civic organizations, undoubtedly has brought to the American people a better understanding of the Navy, its activities, its needs and its purposes, particularly its essential relation to the prosperity which comes from our nation's sea-borne commerce.

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL
CRUISE

CHAPTER XLVIII.

DAN'L had had no chance to straighten the lance; it was bent at right angles in the middle. When Brander and the seaman rolled on the floor, Dan'l lifted the weapon to bring it down like a hoe on Brander's back. The struggling men rolled away, the blade struck and stuck in the planking of the floor.

Brander got his man's throat and crushed it, so that the man lay still. Dan'l was tugging to get the blade free of the wood. Then Faith appeared in the doorway of the after cabin. She was weak and sick and trembling; she gripped the door-post with her left hand. With her right she lifted a revolver.

"Dan'l," she cried, "stop!" His back was turned toward her; but at her word he whirled, saw her, and sprang toward her, roaring. Brander was too far away to come between. Faith waited till Dan'l was within six feet of her; then she lowered her weapon's muzzle and shot him through the knee. He fell on his face at her feet, utterly disabled, and the senses went out of him.

As the echoes of the shot died in that narrow space, a great quiet settled down upon the Sally Sims. What shadows remained Roy was able to clear away—Roy, who had hated both Brander and Faith, yet in whom lived a strain of true blood that could not but answer the good in these two in the end. The evil in Dan'l was to see, when Roy found him clutching Faith; and Roy was not blind.

The boy abused himself; he was pitifully ashamed. Still hoarse from the choking Dan'l had given him, he told how he had stolen the whisky at the man's bidding—a little at first, a ten-gallon keg in the end. He told how he had himself filled the jug in Brander's boat with the liquor, and had hidden a bottle in Mauger's bunk, and had led to old Tichel in the matter. He told the whole tale, and made his peace with them, while Faith and Brander watched each other over the boy's sobbing head with eloquent eyes.

For the rest—Silva was dead, and they buried him in the sand of the beach. Mauger had a shallow knife-slit along his ribs; Willis Cox had a broken jaw. The others had suffered nothing worse than bruises, save only Dan'l Tobey. Dan'l's knees were smashed and splintered, and he lay in a stupor in the cabin, Willis watching beside him.

Those who had fled to the boats came shakily back at last. Faith and Brander met them at the rail, and Faith spoke to them. They had done wrong, she told them, but there was a chance of wiping out the score by bending to the toil she set them. They were already sick of adventuring; they swarmed about like homesick boys. She and Brander told them what to do, and drove them to it.

Before that day was gone they had half her load out of the Sally, and at full tide that night, with every hand tugging at a line or breasting a capstan-bar, they hauled her off. She slid an inch, two inches, four. She moved a foot, three feet. They freed her by sheer power of their determination that she must come free. Then the boats lowered, and towed her safe off shore, and anchored her there.

After that it took three days to get the casks inbound again and stowed below. In those three days Dan'l Tobey passed from suffering to delirium. Brander had been told his wound as best he could, but the bone was splintered and the flesh was shattered, and there came an hour when the flesh about the wound turned green and black. "He's got to lose either leg or life," Brander told Faith. She did not ask him if he were sure; she knew him well enough now never to doubt him again. But Dan'l, in an interval of lucidity, had heard.

"Take it off, Brander," he croaked. "Take it off. Get the ax, man!" Brander bent over him.

"I'll do my best for you," Dan'l grinned with the old jeer in his eyes.

"Aye, I've no doubt, Mr. Brander. Go at it, man!"

They had not so much as a vial of morphia to deaden the pain, and Dan'l slumped into delirium at the first stroke of the knife, which Brander had whetted to a razor keenness. His body twitched in the grip of Willis Cox and Loum. Faith helped Brander to tie the arteries; Roy stood by to give what aid he could.

When it was done Faith said the Sally would lie at anchor till Dan'l died or mended; and in two weeks Brander told her the man would live. She nodded.

"Then we'll go out and fill our casks," she said. "And then for home!"

Brander looked at her with shining eyes.

"Aye, fill our casks," he agreed, as if it were the most natural thing in the world to stick to that task till it was done. They put to sea. Dan'l was going to live; but the man was broken. He could not quit his bunk through the months of the homeward cruise; he was wasted by the fury of his own passions, by the shock of his crippling injury. He had aged; there was no longer any strength in the man. So old Tichel came into his own at last; he became the titular master of the ship, and Faith was content to let him hold the reins, so long as he did as she desired.

Willis Cox yielded precedence to Brander; Brander was mate. When they sighted whales all three of them lowered while Faith kept ship. Their work had been nearly done before Noll died; they lacked less than a dozen whales to fill. Young Roy, to his vast content, was allowed to take out a boat and kill one of that last dozen, while Brander, in his boat, lay watchful by.

Came a day when the trying-out was done that Brander went to Faith.

"We're bung up," he said. "The last cask's sweating full."

Faith nodded happily, and swung to Mr. Tichel.

"Then let's for home," she said. For the rest, the story tells itself. They hauled in to the nearest island port, where they recovered the water-casks and took on wood and water for the five months' homeward way. They stocked with potatoes and vegetables. The crew's nests came down, and to gallantmasts were set to carry canvas on the passage. The gear was stripped from the whaleboats and stowed away, and two of the boats were lashed atop the boat-house with the spars. The rigging had a touch of tar, the hull and spars took a lick of paint, the woodwork shone with scraping.

So, to sea. The first day out saw the dismantling of the try-works; and broken bricks flew overside for half that day, all hands joining in the sport of it. Then a clean deck and a stout northwest wind behind them, and the long easterly stretch to the Horn was begun.

That homeward cruise was a pleasant time for Faith and Brander. They were much together, speaking little, speaking not at all of themselves; save once, when Faith said, smiling at him shyly, "I knew you hadn't done it, even when I told them to put you in irons."

He nodded. "I knew you knew."

They both understood; their eyes said what their lips were not yet ready to say. There was a reticence upon them. Faith, on the deck of her husband's ship, still felt the shadow of Noll Wing in her life.

Brander, too, felt its presence. It made neither of them unhappy; they respected it. Faith was never ashamed of Noll. He had been a man. She had loved him; she was proud that he had loved her. Day by day they were together, on deck or below, while the winds worked for them and the stars in their courses watched over them. Through the chill of Southern waters they rounded the cape. Tichel, looking back at it, waved his hand in valedictory.

"What are you thinking, Mr. Tichel?" Faith asked.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota

Submitted by the Legislature at its General Session, 1929, to the People of Minnesota at the General 1930 Election Together with Statements of Purpose and Effect of each

Prepared by
HENRY N. BENSON
Attorney-General of Minnesota.

Addressed to
MIKE HOLM
Secretary of State.

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGAL DEPARTMENT.
HENRY N. BENSON,
Attorney General.

St. Paul, Minnesota, February 27, 1930.

HONORABLE MIKE HOLM,
Secretary of State.

In compliance with the provisions of section 44, General Statutes 1929, I furnish you herewith a statement of the purpose and effect of proposed amendments to the constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election in 1930, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the legislature at the 1929 session thereof.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 439, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 3 of article 10 of the constitution relating to corporations. This section now reads as follows:

"Each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of business, shall be liable to the amount of stock held or owned by him."

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"The legislature shall have power from time to time to provide for, limit and otherwise regulate the liability of stockholders or members of corporations and co-operative corporations or associations, however organized. Provided every stockholder in a banking or trust corporation or association shall be individually liable in an amount equal to the amount of stock owned by him for the debts of such corporation or association prior to any transfer of such stock and such individual liability shall continue for one year after any transfer of such stock and the entry thereof on the books of the corporation or association."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment: The Constitution, as it now stands, makes every stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing or mechanical business, liable for the debts of the corporation, if the corporate assets are insufficient to pay the debts, up to an amount equal to the par value of the stock held or owned by him, in addition to any liability he may have as a stockholder on account of his stock. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to prescribe and regulate the liability of stockholders or members in all corporations including co-operative corporations or associations, however organized, except stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment: If adopted, it will be to abrogate the present rule of stockholders' liability prescribed by the constitution, except in the case of stockholders in banks or trust companies, and to place the matter of prescribing and regulating the liability of stockholders in all corporations, co-operative corporations or associations created under the laws of this state (except banking or trust corporations or associations) entirely within the control of the legislature, subject to change from time to time as the legislature may see fit.

Stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations will remain, as they now are, liable in an amount equal to the amount of stock held or owned by them. The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

First:
LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS IN CORPORATIONS.

Amendment to Section 3, Article 10, of the Constitution authorizing the legislature from time to time to regulate the liability of stockholders in corporations.

YES.....
NO.....

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By the adoption of Chapter 439, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 6 of the Constitution, relating to the supreme court. This section now reads as follows:

"The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices, but the number of associate justices may be increased by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each of any judicial district; it shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

Permitted to the authority granted by this section the legislature in 1931 increased the number of associate justices to four.

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each of any judicial district; it shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment: The supreme court, as now organized under the Constitution, consists of a chief justice, and four associate justices, all elected by the people. In 1931, in order to take care of the increasing business of the court, the legislature passed a law providing for the appointment of two commissioners to assist the court in the performance of its duties. The state order which these commissioners are appointed provides that each shall receive the same compensation as a justice of the supreme court, and also provides that, if, by amendment to the constitution, the number of associate justices shall be increased to six, the office of commissioner shall without further act be abolished.

In practice the commissioners sit as members of the court, hear arguments, read briefs, take part in discussions, write opinions, and in general do the same work as the regular justices, but they have no vote in determining the final decision of the court. The legislature can not give the commissioners a voice in the decisions of the court, since the organization of the court is governed by the constitution.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to provide for the election of two more associate justices with full authority as members of the court, to take the place of the present two commissioners, who will then cease to hold office.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment: If adopted, it will be to provide for the election of two more associate justices of the supreme court with full authority as members of the court, replacing the present two commissioners, without additional expense.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

By the adoption of Chapter 431, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to article 8 of the Constitution by adding a new section to be known as section 8, and reading as follows:

"Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may be exchanged for lands owned by the state, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the same laws as to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment: By section 2 of article 8 of the Constitution school and swamp lands owned by the state may not be disposed of other than at public sale. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to abrogate this requirement in so far as the disposal of such lands to the federal government is concerned by authorizing the legislature to provide for the making of direct exchange with the United States of such state lands in return for lands owned by the federal government.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment: If adopted, it will be to abrogate, under such conditions and regulations as the legislature may prescribe and to the extent necessary to effectuate exchanges of state, school and swamp lands for lands owned by the federal government, the rule requiring the disposal of school and swamp lands only by public sale. Such abrogation and the consequent provision for exchange of lands in pursuance of legislative enactment authorized by the proposed amendment will not impair or diminish the trust funds of the state arising from the sale of school and swamp lands, since the proceeds of sale of federal lands in exchange therefor, under the proposed amendment, be deposited to the credit of such trust funds.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By the adoption of Chapter 439, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 6 of the Constitution, relating to the supreme court. This section now reads as follows:

FINAL DRIVE FAILS AS B. H. S. LOSES TO AITKIN HIGH 6-0

MINNESOTA LEADS INDIANA 6-0 AT CLOSE OF THIRD

GUN HALTS GAME WITH THE BALL ON 3-INCH LINE

NICKANDER AND PETERSON, AITKIN BACKS, STARS OF COLD WEATHER BATTLE

A NUMBER OF FUMBLES AND PASSES PROVIDE THRILLS FOR FREEZING FANS

By "HAPPY" COLE
Carrying the ball to within three inches of the Aitkin goal line on three successive forward passes, the timer's gun ended a thrilling Brainerd drive to score yesterday afternoon at the Municipal field and Aitkin won a spectacular 6-0 victory before several hundred chilled football fans.

Nickander, the big Aitkin fullback and captain, was easily the star of the contest which was played with the thermometer hovering around the 20-degree mark. Nickander did about everything that a good high school football player should do despite the playing conditions that made the ball hard to handle. He did some nice punting, he ran the ends, smashed off tackle and into the center of the line, and was the key man of a deadly passing attack that brought the only score of the game.

The other Aitkin player that caused many a chill to go down the backs of Brainerd rooters was Peterson. Aitkin left halfback, Peterson was the other cog in a fast Aitkin running attack and he was on the receiving end of most of Nickander's well-directed forward passes.

For three periods Aitkin had a decided advantage in the play, but in the last quarter Brainerd opened up with a passing attack that almost meant victory. First Brainerd tried running the ends but this method of attack did not prove successful and Stevens and Wilton, the Aitkin ends, must be given a great deal of credit for not allowing themselves to be boxed out of the plays. As a result Brainerd ball carriers were often downed behind the line of scrimmage.

Brainerd backs bucked the husky Aitkin line with moderate success. At times the thrusts were successful while on other occasions the Aitkin line held like a stone wall. The passing attack which worked so well in the closing minutes was not so successful when tried earlier in the game.

In the opening quarter Nickander kicked off to Brainerd. Coach Dammann's boys failed to gain on several line plays and kicked against the wind, the ball going to midfield. After failing to gain through the Brainerd line, Aitkin kicked, the ball going over the goal line.

Play was resumed with the ball in Brainerd's possession on its own 20-yard line. A few minutes later Aitkin fell on a Brainerd fumble on the Brainerd 25-yard line. A run by Nickander around the left end of the line netted six yards and two line plays made it first down.

Then Nickander fell back and sent a pass into the waiting arms of Peterson who had to take but two steps to cross the Brainerd goal line for the only score of the game. Brainerd blocked the attempted kick for the point after the touchdown.

Aitkin had a decided advantage during the remainder of the first half, numerous fumbles because of the cold spoiling chances for both teams. Aitkin tried a quick kick shortly after the beginning of the second quarter but lost ground instead of gaining due to the heavy west wind into which they were kicking.

Nickander kicked off to Brainerd again to start the second half. The Brainerd ball carriers tried the Aitkin line for three downs and after finding it immovable for three downs, kicked.

On the first play, Peterson, flashy Aitkin back, dashed through a broken field for twenty yards on a cut-back play. On the next play Wilton took a lateral pass from Nickander and ran thirty yards before he was finally brought to earth in mid-field.

Aitkin made another first down on line plays and then Nickander skirted the Brainerd right end with a pretty run for a fourth first down, Wylie being hurt on the play.

Then the Brainerd line began to hold and Brainerd gained possession of the ball on downs on its own 13-yard line.

Brainerd kicked to mid-field but the passing combination of Nickander to Peterson brought the ball right back to the Brainerd 15-yard line, Wylie finally halting the flying Peterson with a pretty tackle.

Here the Brainerd line held again and the secondary defense stopped the Aitkin aerial attack and Brainerd came into possession of the ball on its own 15-yard line as the third quarter ended.

Brainerd kicked out of danger and on the first play Nickander gained substantially on a long end run with pretty blocking by Spurrier and Scarbuck. The Brainerd line finally held for downs on its own 22-yard line.

And then the drive started that almost meant victory for Brainerd. Schuetz got loose on an end run that netted some twenty yards. Elmer Foster, who went in the game earlier as a substitute for Hogan, added nine more with an off-tackle smash. Schuetz got through the Aitkin right tackle and drove on for 15 more yards before he was stopped. He was hurt on the play and Cass went in for Brainerd.

Brainerd tried the Aitkin line for two plays and then Aitkin was called offside, giving Brainerd another first down and putting the ball on the Aitkin 15-yard line. Several more line smashes carried the ball to the 9-yard line. Gabiou gained a yard by hitting the center of the line. On the next

A moment later Aitkin got the ball on downs and kicked to mid-field. With only a few minutes of play remaining Brainerd tried its passing attack. Two passes were completed in a row, the second into the hands of Cass brought the ball to the Aitkin 20-yard line.

Then came the last and most dramatic play of the game. Gabiou dropped back and sent a pass into a mob of players near the goal. The ball settled in the arms of Wylie, Brainerd end. He took a couple of steps and was downed almost on the goal line. The Brainerd rooters thought it was a touchdown but the ball was three inches from the line. RIEBETH CIRCLES END FOR 32 YARDS AND A TOUCHDOWN

SPECTACULAR PLAY COMES IN FIRST QUARTER OF OPENING CONFERENCE GAME

MINNESOTA TAKES ADVANTAGE OF TWO INDIANA FUMBLES; DEFENSE HOLDING SCORE BY QUARTERS

First—Minnesota, 6; Indiana, 0.

Second—Minnesota, 0; Indiana, 0.

Third—Minnesota, 0; Indiana, 0.

Minnesota led Indiana, 6 to 0, at the end of the third quarter today.

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—Fritz Crisler and the 1930 University of Minnesota football squad met their initial appearance in western conference competition today against Indiana.

With prestige accumulated from the scoreless tie with Stanford last Saturday, the Gophers are expected to win over Coach Pat Page's team. Indiana, however, has nine veterans with conference experience last year and the Hoosiers already have lost to Ohio State in their first Big Ten game two weeks ago.

The game is the first in which a team coached by Crisler, Alonzo Stagg's understudy at Chicago until last spring, has met conference opponents. Minnesota trampled South Dakota State only to be ingloriously defeated by Vanderbilt and then relieved to hold Stanford scoreless. Today's game will be a real test of Minnesota's offensive.

Crisler has devoted the entire week except one drill to offense. Clint Riebeth appeared assured of a backfield assignment with his recovery from a recent illness while Mervin Dillner, who was injured slightly in practice this week, is expected to be back at once.

Snappy football weather with possible flurries of snow were predicted for the game in contrast to the "California" weather last week when Stanford was here.

The starting line-up:

Minnesota — Ohlsen, le; Wells, lt; Reihnen, lg; Stein, c; Munn, rg; Berry, rt; Krezowski, lt; W. Hass, qb; Schfartz, rh; Brockmeyer, lb; Manders, fb.

Indiana — Dickey, le; Kuchins, lt; Rehm, lg; Spanuth, c; Zeller, rg; Jasper, rt; Richardson, lb; Dauer, qb; Hoover, rh; Ashby, lb; Edmonds, fb.

FIRST QUARTER

Minnesota, winning the toss, chose to defend the western goal. Indiana kicked off to Riebeth on his 10-yard line. Riebeth was downed on his 27-yard line. Manders made eight yards on two plays into the line and Munn kicked to Indiana's 30-yard line. Two penalties on Minnesota gave Indiana a first down. Minnesota held for three downs and Indiana punted. An exchange of punts interspersed with an Indiana fumble gave Minnesota the ball on Indiana's 35-yard line.

Minnesota marched to the 8-yard line but fumbled. Minnesota again put the ball in play on Indiana's 35-yard line after a punt. Riebeth circled Indiana's end for 32 yards and a touchdown. Manders' kick was wide. Ross and Thomas replaced Hoover and Dickey for Indiana. Indiana kicked off to Minnesota. Munn punted after two plays to Indiana on its 30-yard line.

Edmonds punted on fourth down with 10 to go to Minnesota's 17-yard line. Munn immediately returned the punt to his 31-yard line as the quarter ended. Minnesota, 6; Indiana, 0.

SECOND QUARTER

An Indiana place kick failed. Minnesota put the ball in play from its 20-yard line. Manders and Riebeth made a first down in two plays to the 31-yard line. Manders on two plays and a five-yard penalty on Indiana, made another first down on Minnesota's 43-yard line.

Munn punted to Dauer on his 15-yard line. He returned the ball to his 27-yard line. Brubaker, Mankowski and Rehm replaced Dauer, Spanuth and Rehm for Indiana. Minnesota intercepted a long forward pass in the middle of the field. Munn punted to Indiana's 21-yard line.

Edmonds punted for Indiana after three plays to Minnesota's 34-yard line. Coach Crisler replaced Minnesota's backfield, sending in McDougall, Brockmeyer, Kirk and Lekeell. Munn punted to Indiana's 31-yard line. Another exchange of punts gave Indiana the ball on its 45-yard line. Indiana was penalized 25 yards to its 20-yard line as the quarter ended, with Minnesota leading, 6 to 0.

Activity of Small Use if Not Wisely Directed

Aeschylus, one of the greatest of the Greek poets, tells us that "A child pursues the flying bird," and the old Greeks who heard him understood just what he meant. We have often seen a dog go after a flying bird with all possible eagerness; and we smiled at his folly. The dog might be a good runner, but the bird had no need to fear his speed. We have seen a dog chase a railway train and if the dog could think, no doubt when the train had passed beyond its ken it would say to itself, "I chased away that great monster."

Activity is little use unless it is wisely directed. A man may spend a lifetime chasing flying birds, or attempting to catch something which he has never the remotest chance of securing. Men have spent many years trying to discover the secret of perpetual motion, but the secret still eludes humanity. Youth is usually busy at something or other which is perfectly practicable, but occasionally we find a wild chase after the impossible. And, even if the child caught the bird, what would he do with it? Suppose we get what we are after, what good will it be to us? We have seen men catch something which they had been seeking for months, or even years, and when they had secured it they were no farther ahead. The thing was not worth the effort.—London Times.

No National Flower

The schools and a number of societies have popularized the goldenrod so that it is sometimes regarded as the national flower, but there is no national flower. Bills naming one have been introduced in congress from time to time, but no official action has ever been taken on a national flower.

ARMY at Harvard, Penn at Wisconsin, Florida at Chicago, Cornell at Princeton, Fordham at Holy Cross, Pitt at Syracuse, Tennessee at Alabama (the geography is collegiate in that listing) are some of the games of more than ordinary football fan interest this afternoon.

Ever since late last Fall, New England, in particular, has recorded with reports that Harvard has the makings of an especially great team, one that will rank with those which featured a Mahan, a Hardwick, a Brickley, a Casey or an Owen and which will be worthy this year of historic Haughton victory traditions. Today the Crimson is confronted with its first acid test—a rejuvenated Army array, sans Cagle and Murrell, but with some seasoned stars from other colleges who have put a mighty kick in the West Point mule. If "Big Ben" Ticknor, Barry Wood & Co. can thrash Major Sasse's Cadets in decisive style, Yalensians will have but little hope of starting their "Under-taker" wait later this Fall as shadows spread o'er an encircled bowl at New Haven. Army-Harvard—that's "the game of games" in the Far East today.

Some great contests between "Big Ten" rivals are on today—Michigan vs. Ohio State, Northwestern vs. Illinois, etc.—but the chief rays of the spotlight in the vast stretches of the so-called Middle West will beam on Madison where Wisconsin will entertain Penn and on Chicago where Stagg's boys will try to turn Florida's 'Gators into souvenir purses.

Oregon State is to try to stem Stanford on the Pacific Coast, Notre Dame is playing with its most victorious opponent—Carnegie Tech—at South Bend, Yale is "boothing" Brown at New Haven, and Princeton is on the Cornell anvil in the Jersey jungle this afternoon.

In addition, Columbia and Dartmouth are bucking each other at Hanover, while Major Frank Cavannah's Polish-Irish Fordham Ram is battering their ancient Cross rivals at Worcester, Mass.

Snappy football weather with possible flurries of snow were predicted for the game in contrast to the "California" weather last week when Stanford was here.

The starting line-up:

Minnesota — Ohlsen, le; Wells, lt; Reihnen, lg; Stein, c; Munn, rg; Berry, rt; Richardson, le; Dauer, qb; Schfartz, rh; Brockmeyer, lb; Manders, fb.
Indiana — Dickey, le; Kuchins, lt; Rehm, lg; Spannuth, c; Zeller, rg; Jasper, rt; Richardson, le; Dauer, qb; Hoover, rh; Ashby, lb; Edmonds, fb.

FIRST QUARTER
Minnesota, winning the toss, chose to defend the western goal. Indiana kicked off to Riebeth on his 10-yard line. Riebeth was downed on his 27-yard line. Manders made eight yards on two plays into the line and Munn kicked to Indiana's 30-yard line. Two penalties on Minnesota gave Indiana a first down. Minnesota held for three downs and Indiana punted. An exchange of punts interspersed with an Indiana fumble gave Minnesota the ball on Indiana's 35-yard line.

Minnesota marched to the 8-yard line but fumbled. Minnesota again put the ball in play on Indiana's 35-yard line after a punt. Riebeth circled Indiana's end for 32 yards and a touchdown. Manders' kick was wide. Ross and Thomas replaced Hoover and Dickey for Indiana. Indiana kicked off to Minnesota. Munn punted after two plays to Indiana on its 30-yard line.

Edmonds punted on fourth down with 10 to go to Minnesota's 17-yard line. Munn immediately returned the punt to his 31-yard line as the quarter ended. Minnesota, 6; Indiana, 0.

SECOND QUARTER

An Indiana place kick failed. Minnesota put the ball in play from its 20-yard line. Manders and Riebeth made a first down in two plays to the 31-yard line. Manders on two plays and a five-yard penalty on Indiana, made another first down on Minnesota's 43-yard line.

Munn punted to Dauer on his 15-yard line. He returned the ball to his 27-yard line. Brubaker, Mankowski and Raach replaced Dauer, Spannuth and Rehm for Indiana. Minnesota intercepted a long forward pass in the middle of the field. Munn punted to Indiana's 21-yard line.

Edmonds punted for Indiana after three plays to Minnesota's 34-yard line. Coach Crisler replaced Minnesota's backfield, sending in McDougall, Brockmeyer, Kirk and Leksell. Munn punted to Indiana's 31-yard line. Another exchange of punts gave Indiana the ball on its 45-yard line. Indiana

Activity of Small Use if Not Wisely Directed

Aeschylus, one of the greatest of the Greek poets, tells us that "A child pursues the flying bird," and the old Greeks who heard him understood just what he meant. We have often seen a dog go after a flying bird with all possible eagerness; and we smiled at his folly. The dog might be a good runner, but the bird had no need to fear his speed. We have seen a dog chase a railway train and if the dog could think, no doubt when the train had passed beyond its ken it would say to itself, "I chased away that great monster."

Activity is little use unless it is wisely directed. A man may spend a lifetime chasing flying birds, or attempting to catch something which he has never the remotest chance of securing. Men have spent many years trying to discover the secret of perpetual motion, but the secret still eludes humanity. Youth is usually busy at something or other which is perfectly practicable, but occasionally we find a wild chase after the impossible. And, even if the child caught the bird, what would he do with it? Suppose we get what we are after, what good will it be to us? We have seen men catch something which they had been seeking for months, or even years, and when they had secured it they were no farther ahead. The thing was not worth the effort.—London Times.

No National Flower

The schools and a number of societies have popularized the goldenrod so that it is sometimes regarded as the national flower, but there is no national flower. Bills naming one have been introduced in congress from time to time, but no official action has ever been taken on a national flower.

By the Record

Amid all the talk about American claims to territory in Antarctica, history continues to attest that the first man to reach the Pole was a Norwegian and the second one an Englishman.—Detroit Free Press.

THE LIFE STORY OF MAURICE CHEVALIER

Taken Prisoner, He Escapes; Returns to Stage, Then Breaks
Talkies

Editor's Note: This is the concluding article on the life of Maurice Chevalier, talkie star.

Long days and nights in the trenches followed for Maurice Chevalier.

It was a serious business—war—and he forgot about singing, mimicry and the playing of mischievous jokes.

One day shrapnel burst directly behind the trench in which he crouched. The idol of the boulevards was picked up, blood running from his mouth. He opened his eyes just as some gray-helmeted figures were piling him into a German ambulance. He was a prisoner.

Taken to a prison hospital within the German lines, Chevalier mended slowly.

He remained in the prison camp for 26 months after his capture. Another French prisoner, Joe Bridge, discussed the possibility of escape with him. They made their plans and secured two costumes of German Red Cross workers.

One night they donned their costumes and made the "break" for freedom.

By slow stages they made their way thru the enemy lines, back to their own.

When they re-appeared in Paris the government decorated Chevalier with the Croix De Guerre.

Chevalier readily adapted himself to the changed Paris immediately after the war.

He again became the partner of Mistinguett and they appeared in the Folies Bergere and the Casino De Paris.

He dressed as an American sailor for his dancing sets and they were hugely successful. His name appeared in glittering electric lights. He was a star.

After appearing opposite Mistinguett again at the Folies Bergere, Chevalier was booked with the star at the Femina.

His fame spread and he tried his talent at an operetta-revue, doing so well that when the show closed he was given a fine offer to appear in the Palace Music Hall in London.

He made his London debut with Elsie Janis, American star, and learned more of the American language.

So warm was his reception that he undoubtedly could have remained in London indefinitely. Paris called him, however, and he returned again to play with Mistinguett at the Casino de Paris.

Then, a little over a year ago Jesse L. Lasky, vice president of Paramount-Famous-Lasky, went to Paris, met the star and convinced Chevalier that his next important step was the talkies.

The long trip to Hollywood followed and the French actor made an immediate hit with members of the movie colony.

"Innocents of Paris," his first picture, broke house records thruout the country.

"The Love Parade," his second picture, revealed Chevalier in the proper setting for his glamorous artistry.

It was just one grand musical romance, with ont grand glorious star acting, singing and wisecracking his way into the hearts of the talkie public.

Maurice Chevalier entrance into Hollywood occasioned grins of delight from the executives of his company as his charming personality began to be felt by the public.

Possessing the athletic physique of Douglas Fairbanks, an irresistible smile, left comedy sense, strong dramatic powers and a voice perfectly adapted for mechanical recording both for speech and song, he proved a find.

And now—
"No more stage for me," says Chevalier with a smile. "After playing to hundreds of thousands in a night in the talkies, I would feel that I was appearing at a rehearsal. I am going to stay with the talkies just as long as they stay with me."

Dear Sir:

The Fall Ward Week Newspaper Advertising was the largest campaign that any organization has ever conducted in the annals of Journalism.

The second largest campaign was in connection with the Spring 1930 Ward Week.

These two records establish Ward's as paramount believers in the efficacy of newspaper publicity, in getting a merchandise message across to all the people of America. In total amount of sales we have set a record for ourselves that will prove hard to beat.

We feel that the success of our local campaign is due largely to the response to our advertising in your newspaper. We sincerely appreciate the splendid co-operation that your entire personnel extended to us during this concentrated campaign.

It is a pleasure to work with an organization such as yours. We trust that our relations will continue to be as mutually agreeable in the future as they have been in the past.

Sincerely yours,

SUSPEND SENTENCE OF THREE YOUTHS

Boys Are Arraigned on Burglary Charge in Both Municipal and District Courts

FOR COTTAGE BREAK-IN

Boys Confess to County Attorney Sullivan and Sheriff Theorin After Arrest

Three Brainerd boys, Roy Sandberg, Merritt Fox and Kenneth Rossini, were given a suspended sentence to the St. Cloud reformatory by Judge M. E. Ryan this morning in district court, after the boys had pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary in the third degree. After lecturing the boys on their behavior Judge Ryan sentenced the boys to a term, not to exceed three years in the St. Cloud reformatory and then further ruled that the sentence be stayed until the first day of the March term of court in 1931, pending good behavior.

The boys were first arraigned by County Attorney A. J. Sullivan before Judge J. H. Warner in municipal court at 10 o'clock this morning. Judge Warner set the bail of each boy at $250 and ordered that they appear forthwith in district court before Judge Ryan.

The boys were arrested Thursday evening and confessed to County Attorney Sullivan and Sheriff Theorin the break-in of the Roy Wicklund cottage on Pointon Lake in Nokay Lake township on Oct. 4. Articles reported stolen by the boys included a phonograph, fishing rod and reel, a clock and a couple decks of cards, all of which were recovered.

In district court this morning none of the boys could give a logical reason as to why they committed the act. Parents of the boys appeared in court this morning and all testified that the boys had caused them no trouble up until this time.

Rev. Edgar A. Valiant, acting pastor of the First Baptist church made a plea for the boys.

New York Theatre Guild Coming to Minneapolis

The most brilliant and distinguished event of the current theatrical season in the State of Minnesota is the announcement of The New York Theatre Guild presentations, a series of six plays to be presented at intervals during the season by six distinctive Guild acting companies.

The New York Theatre Guild will confine their production efforts in the State of Minnesota to the Lyceum theatre, Minneapolis, exclusively, where each of the series of six plays will be presented.

The first of the series of the Guild's offerings will be Bernard Shaw's sparkling satire, "The Apple Cart," which will come to the Lyceum theatre, Minneapolis, for one week beginning Monday, November 3. There will be popular matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

"The Apple Cart" is the theatre rage of New York, London, Paris, Berlin, Budapest and Melbourne, and preparations are in the process of execution to present this latest Shaw satire in all of the leading cities throughout the civilized world.

The series of six plays to be presented here by special Guild companies will be: Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart," Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen," S. Tretiakow's "The Genius and His Brother," Turgenev's "A Month in the Country," and the Guild's intimate musical revue "The Garrick Gaieties."

During the season the Guild will send to Minneapolis with its six acting companies the following artists: Alfred Lunt, Earle Larimore, Ernest Cossart, Tom Powers, Lynn Fontanne, Alla Nazimova, Violet Kemper Cooper, Barbara Allen and other noted stage celebrities.

The Apple Cart which comes to Minneapolis direct from the Blackstone Theatre, Chicago will embrace in its roster the names of some of America's foremost artists among whom are: Tom Powers, Violet Kemper Cooper, Ernest Cossart, Barbara Allen, Frederick Truesdell, Audrey Ridgeway, Claude Rains, George Graham, Eva Leonard and others. Truly a cast of artists in keeping with the high standard of excellence for which The New York Theatre Guild is noted.

Mail orders for the series of six plays also for individual performances are now being received and the orders are being filled in the order received.

Dear Editor:

I have lived in Brainerd for over 40 years and I have seen the people of the city and county pick up Judge McClenahan and make him what he was. We are now helping to pay his pension. I don't believe he realized fully what he was doing and I don't blame him so much as I do those who were responsible for it. I know that they will live to regret their unmanly action.

Yours very truly,

Old Timer,
CON O'BRIEN.

GIVE DRUNK TEN DAY JAIL TERM

Judge Warner Answers Workless Man's Plea With Sentence Without Option of Fine

Judge J. H. Warner solved the work problem of at least one Brainerd man this morning. George Betzold was arraigned before Judge Warner in Municipal court this morning on a charge of being drunk. This is not Betzold's first offense and Judge Warner asked him what he had to say for himself.

Betzold told the judge that he had been out of work for some time. Judge Warner immediately sentenced the man to ten days in the city jail without option of fine and told him that he might get a chance to work if the janitor of the city hall needed someone to help him wash windows or do other work.

TO INSTALL NEW OFFICERS MONDAY

American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary Plan an Elaborate Program

INVITE MANY POSTS

Committee to Announce Complete Entertainment Program in Monday's Daily Dispatch

Next Monday evening the Legion's hall in the Iron Exchange building, will be the scene of a real Legion celebration, the occasion being the installation of the new officers of the local post and unit.

It marks the end of a successful year under the leadership of Archie Falconer and Mrs. Art Hagberg. At this time Jack Alton and Miss Evelyn Mraz will assume the duties of their respective offices, that of commander of the Legion and Auxiliary and it is our intention that they be accorded a real send off.

All of the Legion posts and Auxiliary units in the surrounding towns within a radius of 60 miles have been invited and have all promised to send delegations. About 12 posts and their auxiliaries will be represented here that night.

A district executive meeting of the Legion has been arranged for earlier in the evening so that all of the district officers will be able to attend the installation. The district officers that will be here are: the four vice commanders, H. A. Little of Wadena; Leo Cashen of Hill City; Clifford Bonnis of St. Cloud and A. E. Rudquist of Blackduck, the chaplain, Rev. Harry Bell of Wadena and the Past Commander A. T. Gilbertson of Remer. Officers of the district that reside here are Art Hagberg, commander; Earl Rhodes, adjutant; and Al Mraz, finance officer. The Auxiliary have invited their District President Mrs. A. J. Weisner of Sauk Centre and she is expected to be here.

Attorney "Rollie" Barron of Wadena, a one time resident of Brainerd and "Jerry" Spiering of St. Cloud who at one time managed the local gas plant have written that they will be here for the occasion.

A committee headed by Earl Rhodes is arranging an elaborate program and will announce it in Monday's Dispatch. They have secured an orchestra to play for a dance that is part of the entertainment and will follow the program.

An Auxiliary committee under the direction of Mrs. L. J. "Mother" Mraz will prepare and serve lunch.

FETE ENGINEERS AT BROWN LAKE HOME

Babcock Escorts 125 Engineering Delegates to Dinner at Mille Lacs

AITKIN BAND PLAYS

Several Brainerd Men Are Invited to Assist in the Serving

More than 200 people attended a dinner held yesterday at the Earl Brown Lodge on Mille Lacs Lake for a group consisting of 125 engineers representing about one-third of the delegation that attended the International Convention of Highway Engineers held recently at Washington.

The engineers were feted at the Brown lodge after being escorted there by C. W. Babcock, commissioner of highways and several members of his staff.

The men were on their way from Hibbing to the Twin Cities and were inspecting various phases of highway construction while passing along some of Minnesota's finest roads.

The men traveled in chartered busses. The arrangements for the dinner were made by members of Mr. Babcock's staff and the meal was served in a large tent heated by two stoves because of the cold weather.

Among others the following men from Brainerd were invited by A. W. Moulster, assistant maintenance superintendent of the highway department of this district to attend the meeting and act as waiters: E. H. Rhodes, George Erickson, Jr., Bert Allen, R. T. Campbell, W. M. Murphy, Al Veillette, C. W. Mahlum, and E. G. Roth.

The Aitkin Municipal band furnished music for the occasion.

Refilled Gulch Sags; Repair Work Needed on Sixth St. Sidewalk

A gulch that touched what is now Sixth street and which was covered to make possible the construction of one of the city's main streets today was a reminder of 50 years ago in this city.

Time passed and the old gulch was forgotten until recently when City Engineer R. T. Campbell noticed the curb and sidewalk in front of R. D. King's store was below the level laid out for it.

Today workmen were filling in with concrete to make a firm foundation for the sidewalk.

Part of the street also may have to be repaired as a result of the setting.

The cost will be met by the city and the Gould-Gray Co., owners of the Iron Exchange building.

"It's the little things that tell"

That's what big sister said to her boy friend as she pulled little brother out from under the sofa. But wait till big sister and the boy friend are man and wife, with a home of their own to run. Then how much more she'll realize the truth of her observation!

For then the age old problems will come pressing hard. So much in the pocketbook. So much on the shopping list. Will it fit? Then's when the little things make the big difference. The little savings—the small economies—the slightly better values of which a good housekeeper takes advantage.

Then's when big sister will read the advertisements as she never read them before. Comparing values; learning reliable brands; watching the bargain and reduction announcements. . . . The advertisements will help her in a thousand ways to take care of the little things, acquire the little short-cuts in time and effort—in the big job of running a home.

Read the advertisements every day. Consistently advertised goods are worthy of your confidence . . . otherwise they couldn't be consistently advertised

SOLDIERS Field at Cambridge, Mass., should be the scene of its hardest and most interesting 1930 contest this Saturday when the Army plays Harvard in what justifies the phrase "football classic" to the fullest. Both teams are striving brilliantly for national as well as All-Eastern supremacy. Each has a galaxy of stars but it is team-work that gives the punch to both.

Coach Arnold Horween at Harvard has been perfecting the splendid machine developed last year to that ideal Cantabrigian climax, the defeat of Yale. Coach Ralph Sasse at West Point is achieving a remarkable reconstruction job required when the extraordinary "Red" Cagle, the line-pounding Murrell, Hutchinson, O'Keefe, Gibner, Piper and others were graduated last June. Army had this veteran nucleus to build upon: Capt. "Polly" Humber and Hilzinger, guards; P. G. Miller and Lazar, centers; Price at tackle; and those starry ends, Carlmark and Messenger.

Major Sasse also had rich material coming up from the Point's brilliant 1929 plebe team, notable among which is Cyril Letzelter, who was a remarkable back at Carnegie Tech for three years; Ed Herb, Bill Frenzler, and Jack Fields, each of whom played variety back for a season at Colgate, Illinois and Lehigh respectively, together with Elliot and a half dozen other potent players who had been under varsity fire in other colleges.

If Army's line looms Saturday

with real strength that new Mule backfield should compare most favorably with the Crimson's glittering Barry Wood, Devens, May, et al. What a battle that forecasts, as close and as thrilling as last year's final minute tie! Remember that do-or-die pass from Wood to Harding on the Cadet goal line which saved the day for Harvard last Fall? The very thought of that toe-curling toss prompts the Sport Bug to take merry flight towards Cambridge for Saturday's game.

Should the rejuvenated Cadets beat, or even tie, this "best team in years" at Harvard, Major Sasse will have demonstrated that the popular "Biff" Jones has a most worthy successor as football commander-in-chief at West Point.

ARREST PAIR FOR HOLDUP ATTEMPT

TREASURER THWARTS ROBBERY BY GIVING ALARM WHILE MENACED BY FIREARMS

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—Two alleged bandits were captured here today shortly after attempting to hold up W. C. Zeperlin, treasurer of the Mills Restaurant Company, and steal a $5,200 payroll.

Though menaced by a shotgun and a revolver in the hands of the robbers, Zeperlin stepped on a burglar alarm and summoned police. The bandits, becoming frightened, abandoned their project and fled. One of them, still carrying a shotgun, was captured in the Dixie Terminal building a block away. The other was captured in the building housing the Mills offices.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 18.—Two bandits kidnaped David Levy, president and treasurer of the G. & S. Mfg. Co., as he left a suburban bank here today and robbed him of a $2,179 payroll.

Levy was forced to get into the robber's automobile and lie on the floor. They ordered him from the car when they reached a side street several blocks away.

SOLDIERS Field at Cambridge, Mass., should be the scene of its hardest and most interesting 1930 contest this Saturday when the Army plays Harvard in what justifies the phrase "football classic" to the fullest. Both teams are striving brilliantly for national as well as All-Eastern supremacy. Each has a galaxy of stars but it is team-work that gives the punch to both.

Coach Arnold Horween at Harvard has been perfecting the splendid machine developed last year to that ideal Cantabrigian climax, the defeat of Yale. Coach Ralph Sasse at West Point is achieving a remarkable reconstruction job required when the extraordinary "Red" Cagle, the line-pounding Murrell, Hutchinson, O'Keefe, Gibnor, Piper and others were graduated last June. Army had this veteran nucleus to build upon: Capt. "Polly" Humber and Hilsinger, guards; P. G. Miller and Lazar, centers; Price at tackle; and those starry ends, Carlmark and Messenger.

Major Sasse also had rich material coming up from the Point's brilliant 1929 plebe team, notable among which is Cyril Letzelter, who was a remarkable back at Carnegie Tech for three years; Ed Herb, Bill Frenzler, and Jack Fields, each of whom played varsity back for a season at Colgate, Illinois and Lehigh respectively, together with Elliot and a half dozen other potent players who had been under varsity fire in other colleges.

If Army's line looms Saturday

with real strength that new Mule backfield should compare more favorably with the Crimson's glittering Barry Wood, Devens, May, et al. What a battle that forecasts, as close and as thrilling as last year's final minute tie! Remember that do-or-die pass from Wood to Harding on the Cadet goal line which saved the day for Harvard last Fall? The very thought of that toe-curling toss prompts the Sport Bug to take merry flight towards Cambridge for Saturday's game.

Should the rejuvenated Cadets beat, or even tie, this "best team in years" at Harvard, Major Sasse will have demonstrated that the popular "Biff" Jones has a most worthy successor as football commander-in-chief at West Point.
